JURY FREES POTTS TWENTY MINUTES AFTER CASE ENDS

After All Day Trial of Murder Case, Verdict Is Quickly Reached at 8:05 Last Night.

AGED MOTHER IN COURT AS SON IS ACQUITTED

Knife Fight to Death in Manhattan Avenue House Is Vividly Described by Former Inmates.

Kell Potts was acquitted last night of the murder of C. Richard Harper, whom he slew in a knife duel last May in a Manhattan avenue house. The trial occupied the entire day, but within twenty minutes after the case had been put in their hands the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Superbly cool during the trial, Potts showed no evidence of strain or relief when the verdict was announced. During the time Judge Roan was charging the jury the young man, bearing on his face half a dozen deep scars from Harper's knife, was reading the account of the trial as told in an afternoon paper. While the jury was out deliberating he was discussing a hunting trip and game laws with several friends.

Mother Hears Trial.

Mrs. Frank Potts, the gray-haired mother of the young man, sat in the courtroom during the entire trial, listening attentively to the description given by the various witnesses. She appeared almost as cool as her son and only when he was freed did she show emotion. Then she leaned over and took him in her arms.

The case was taken up at 9 o'clock Thursday morning and went to the jury at 7:40 o'clock that night. Five witnesses were introduced by the state to show that the accused had murdered Harper.

The fact that Jacques Davis, one of the women said to have been in the room at the start of the quarrel between the men, was not put on the stand by Solicitor General Dorsey was the subject of comment by both attorneys for the defense.

Witnesses Tell of Fight.

Other witnesses were introduced who saw the fighting in the hall, and Attorney Owen R. Arnold, for the defense, declared that the state showed its weak case when it did not place the Davis woman on the stand.

Policeman J. L. Whitley, who was called by attendants at the house, was first put on the stand and told of finding the two men and the fearful cuts upon Potts, whom he arrested.

By Arthur Phillips and Tom Thomas, two negro men, the state tried to show that Potts was the aggressor, even after the fighting had led the two men into the hall from the dining room.

Irene Hobbs, a negro maid, was placed on the stand. She told that she saw the men fighting in the hall and saw Potts pick up a knife from the floor. She did not know whether or not it was open, she said.

Dorsey Tries to Impeach Maid.

Solicitor Dorsey tried to have the court allow him to impeach this woman, his own witness, on the grounds that she had told Newton Garner and Ernest Clark that Potts had picked up the open knife after Harper had dropped it, but his plea was ruled out after lengthy discussion, as the woman had not told positively on the stand that the knife was closed when Potts picked it up.

Potts told his own story of the fight and showed to the jury the long scars on his face, neck and cheeks. He claimed that the fight started when he remonstrated with Harper for unfairness when he was matching for money with one of the women.

"Be a sport, Dick, and let the girl have the money, she has won it," is what Potts says he told Harper, and he says that as he spoke Harper flared up and cut him with the knife, starting the fight.

Stripped to Show Physique.

It was also stated that Harper had been drunkenly bragging of his strength and physique and had stripped and shown the people of the house what a powerful chest and shoulders he possessed. This, according to witnesses, had occurred earlier in the night.

None of Harper's family were represented at the trial. Attorney Charles T. Hopkins, for the defense, stated that Mrs. Harper had first hired a lawyer to prosecute Potts, but that he had reported that Potts had acted in self-defense and that the widow had dropped the case, merely writing young Potts' mother her regrets that the affair had taken place.

THE habit of really reading a paper is fixed with the people who read a good morning newspaper. When one knows that a news story is complete—up-to-date—and authoritative, the inclination to read carefully and understandingly is strong. And people who find all important advertising interesting, too, will find "news stories" interesting. In fact, an interest in daily life as it is lived includes an interest in advertising.

SHE TRAILS FIANCE WHO FLED MARRIAGE

Pretty Widow Says He Will Either Marry Her or Fight Suit.

Pursuing her fleeing sweetheart in a chase she told the police will extend over the entire continent until he is caught, when he will either marry her or fight a breach of promise suit, Mrs. Otto Voget, a pretty Swiss woman of 40 years, went to the office of Chief Beavers yesterday afternoon and enlisted the aid of the police department of Atlanta in her quest.

She has been in Atlanta for a week, staying at the Gate City hotel. She has made a thorough search of the city, but so far has been unable to locate the fleeing betrothed. It was in desperation that she appealed to the police.

The man for whom she is searching is Otto Voget. She explains that she has adopted his name because of the marriage promise he gave her several months ago while both were visiting in Miami, Fla., and she would not tell her real name.

According to the story she told Chief Beavers, which she recited between sobs, several months ago she met Voget, a prosperous plumbing contractor, who after a short courtship, proposed. Demurring at first, but later relenting the woman accepted. The wedding date was set for a week or so ago and the ceremony was to have been performed in the Florida city.

All was in readiness, the trousseau bought and even a site selected for the future home, when two days before the appointed time Voget fled between suns.

After shedding a few necessary tears the determined woman set out to find her missing fiance. Two days after the date set for the marriage she learned that he had gone to Atlanta, so she hurried to this city. Until Thursday afternoon she scoured the city, investigating all businesses pertaining to plumbing and walking the streets in hope of meeting him.

The search was futile. Finally, reduced to only a few dollars and a shred of hope, she appealed to the police.

Mrs. "Voget's" home was originally in New York. She was divorced several years ago. She has two sons, one of whom lives in Switzerland and another in New York. Mrs. Voget's home, she says, is in Wayne, Neb.

She says she lived in Atlanta a few years ago, but she would not tell at what address or divulge her local connections.

WOODS WHITE LANDS ON THE PREACHERS

He Complains They Don't Provide Suitable Religious Work for Members of Church.

Memphis, Tenn., February 20.—At the closing session of the third annual convention of the laymen's missionary movement of the Southern Presbyterian church today $6,660, $160 more than the amount asked, was pledged for the continuance of the work of the movement during the next two years, and the convention went on record in approval of the proposed world's tour of missionaries under the direction of the Inter-Denominational Laymen's Missionary Movement. The object of the tour is to gain material knowledge on which an evangelistic campaign, world-wide in its scope, is to be based. The party will sail about June 1. J. B. McCauley, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was elected as secretary of the movement.

The next place of meeting will be selected by the executive committee. The committee will also decide whether conventions should be held annually or biennially. An invitation from Charlotte, N. C., asking that that city be chosen as the next meeting place, was read.

Church work was discussed by several speakers today. Woods White, of Atlanta, Ga., took to task church workers in general and ministers in particular, because, he declared, suitable religious work is not provided for members of the church, and asserted that these conditions were responsible for many going astray.

"I have dealt with crooks of every description," Mr. White said, "and I have yet to find one who does not believe in God. What they are afraid of is that you workers in the church will not forget and forgive. These crooks are not all crooks by birth; many of them come from Christian families. They drop into vise simply because when they become reconciled to Christianity they are not given something to do."

Rev. Henry H. Sweet, Louisville, Ky., another speaker, today urged the need of more ministers. The number recalled from the pulpit by age or death, he said, equalled the number graduated from seminaries.

A post convention conference in the interest of evangelism and stewardship will be held tomorrow.

TO RUSH CREMATORY

Arc Lights Installed to Permit Work Night and Day.

City Electrician Turner granted a permit to the New York Destructor company, contractors, who are putting up the $276,000 crematory, to install four arc lights on the Hulsey street site. The city electrician denied that the lights were being installed at the expense of the city.

The lights were put in Thursday morning, and announcement followed in the afternoon that the company would have a force of men on the crematory night and day and on Sunday if Mayor Woodward will give the necessary permit.

Mayor Woodward denies that he turned down the request of Sanitary Chief Jentzen because of his opposition to the crematory project.

"I am simply trying to keep peace," Mayor Woodward said. "If I were to give permission to haul dirt through the streets on Sunday I would be cussed out from breakfast to supper."

$116,000 CHURCH FOR SCIENTISTS

Beautiful Structure Will Be Erected at Peachtree and Fifteenth Streets—Building Permits Issued.

A church which will cost approximately $116,000, and which will be ranked among America's classical structures, will be erected by the First Church of Christ, Scientist, at Peachtree and Fifteenth streets.

The building will cost $87,000, according to plans made public Thursday morning, when Charles A. Smith, chairman of the building committee, made application to Ed. R. Hays, building inspector, for a permit. The equipment will cost $13,000, and $16,000 has been paid for the site.

The church will occupy a lot 90 by 100 feet, recently purchased from E. Woodruff. When completed, the church will be one of the prettiest buildings in Atlanta. Architects who have examined the plans on file in the city hall have pronounced them masterpieces of architectural art.

To Be Completed This Year.

"The church will be finished within nine months," said Charles A. Smith, chairman of the building committee, Thursday. "There will be a number of features which will appeal to everyone who attends the services. We are well pleased with the plans and the progress of the efforts of the church."

That the church will be erected earlier than anticipated is due largely, it is said, to the bequest of $5,000 in the will of Mrs. Sue H. Mims, who died recently. She provided the money to be used for building purposes, and also left $1,000 to be used in some other way.

Plans have been under way for more than three years, and it is said that nearly all of the $116,000 necessary to crown the work has been subscribed for, and the balance is represented by substantial pledges.

Excavating Has Already Started.

The cornerstone of the church will be laid within three months. Work was started excavating the site last Saturday, and other details for the building have been worked out. Except for the fact that the church was contemplating erecting a building, nothing was given out concerning the big project.

While the plans were in the process of making, the services have been held in the Woman's club building, on Baker street, and more recently the church secured Cable hall.

The plans for the building were drawn up by Dougherty & Robertson, architects. The entire building will be of classical design. Georgia marble, granite and pressed brick will be the exterior finishings. There will be six large marble or granite columns in front. The temple will be topped with a magnificent dome.

The basement will be constructed of granite and pressed brick. The five rooms and reading parlors will be situated in the basement.

Seating Capacity 854.

committee rooms, Sunday school, club

The seating capacity will be close to 854 persons.

Nothing has been definitely decided upon as to the organ, but it is said that it will be a massive instrument and will add greatly to the cost of the church.

The application for the building permit was made in the name of the firm of Miles & Bradt, contractors.

A representative said that the foundations would be finished shortly, and that the building will be ready within the nine months agreed to.

Members of the church say that there will be little deviation from the services now conducted, although it is the aim to make the choir and organ recitals one of the features of each service. Speakers of note, representing the church to which Mary Baker Eddy gave her life, will be invited to Atlanta from time to time.

A. P. Norman is the first reader of the church and Miss May Shelton is the second reader.

The church has been growing to great proportions in Atlanta and throughout the south.

For Tariff Commission.

Washington, February 20.—Senator Lodge's bill for a tariff commission of five members was indorsed by the senate finance committee today. The measure especially directs the commission to investigate the difference in cost of production between the United States and foreign countries. Republican senators, pledged by caucus to the bill, do not hope to get it through at this session.

Holes in Peachtree Pavement Are Filled Until Permanent Work Is Commenced

Two views of Peachtree, the upper, near Fifteenth street, the lower at Fourteenth, showing deplorable conditions now being temporarily remedied until the county can get to work on the new pavement.

Residents of Peachtree, between Sixth and Fifteenth streets, sighed with relief when they peered through rain-spattered windows early Thursday morning and saw a small army of laborers repairing the holes in the asphalt.

Engineer Nym Hurt, of the construction department, despite the heavy rains of the morning, went on the job bright and early, and when dusk came he had filled and packed nearly every hole in the street. He will have his gang back on the work Friday morning, and will finish packing.

The street will be kept in fairly passable condition until the time comes for the county commissioners to start tearing off the old surface and putting on a new one. Members of the county board reiterated Thursday that they would not allow any other work to be shifted in ahead of the Peachtree work.

Lasting Pavement Wanted.

Councilman Clarence Haverty, of the eighth ward, who, forced upon the street committee the realization that the Peachtree resurfacing was imperative, said Thursday that the property owners would not be satisfied until the street is giver a good and lasting pavement.

Peachtree residents realize that the work being done on Peachtree is only temporary and a "makeshift," nevertheless they are highly pleased and appreciate the prompt response of Chief R. M. Clayton, of the construction department.

Engineer Hurt said that the filling he put in the holes was screenings of rock, and will prove a good "makeshift" if it is inspected and packed once or twice a week. He explained that he expected to keep the street in fairly good condition until the county starts work.

Street Chairman Favors Work.

Councilman Orville H. Hall, chairman of the street committee, said Thursday that he would urge the county not to neglect Peachtree street. He also said that he was firmly convinced that the county commissioners would take up the work just as soon as the weather conditions moderate to the extent of giving assurance that there will be no more freezes.

Alderman Arthur H. Van Dyke and Councilman W. G. Humphrey, council members from the eighth ward, say that they will do all they can to have the work rushed after the county gets started.

Constitution Woman's Edition Is Enthusiastically Indorsed; Mrs. Ottley Is Editor-in-Chief

The woman's edition of The Constitution, to be published in June, by the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs for the Ella White memorial endowment, was enthusiastically indorsed at the meeting of the City Federation of Women's Clubs which was held yesterday, and over which Mrs. Charles J. Haden presided

The announcement that Mrs. J. K. Ottley, who returned Tuesday from a visit to New York, would be editor in chief, had the carrying influence which her interest gives any movement, and, as Mrs. Haden made announcement of Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, president of the Georgia federation, as publisher; Mrs. Hugh Willet, as general manager; Mrs. R. B. Parker, business manager; Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, state editor; Mrs. A. P. Coles, city editor, and Mrs. F. J. Spratling, assistant manager, the enterprise was launched with every assurance for success.

Mrs. Nellie Peters Black will be in charge of the department of philanthropy; Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb, the department of education, and Miss Rosa Woodberry, the memorial to Mrs. H. C. White.

Dr. H. H. Hall, representing the Georgia Peace association, was present, and brought a message of appreciation from Dr. H. C. White.

Perpetuate Mrs. White's Work.

In presenting the subject of the woman's edition to the city federation, Mrs. Haden explained that the edition would be known as the Ella White Endowment Memorial, and that the funds realized therefrom would go toward perpetuating the work in which Mrs. White died rendering service.

As president of the Georgia federation, Mrs. White at the last state meeting urged upon the women of the state the necessity of an endowment whereby the practical workings of the now far-reaching organization would be placed on a business basis.

Mrs. Percy Pennypacker, president of the general federation, was here at the time, and indorsed Mrs. White's effort, and the club women of the two hundred and odd organizations in the state were planning to work out the idea under Mrs. White's direction when her sudden passing, just after the federation of the women's clubs of Savannah, momentarily stopped the machinery of the splendid work in which she was leading, and the heads of the women of Georgia in organized effort were bowed in grief.

The Work Begun.

At a subsequent meeting of the executive board of the state federation, the body acting on a suggestion made by Mrs. Hugh Willet, on the memorial page published in The Constitution, discussed at length the subject of an appropriate memorial and decided upon the endowment fund.

The newly elected president, Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, appointed a committee to act in the planning of it. The committee, with Mrs. H. H. Tift, of Tifton, as chairman, including Mrs. Lipscomb, of Athens; Mrs. Granger, of Cartersville; Mrs. Willet, Mrs. Ottley, Mrs. Haden, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick.

A letter was sent out to the club women of the state through their presidents, announcing the action of the board. Immediately afterwards The Constitution, keenly appreciative of the splendid work of the federated women of the state, whose cause has been continuously presented through the columns of this paper, offered to the endowment committee the woman's edition as a medium through which funds could be realized.

Authoritative Action.

The matter, authoritatively acted upon, is now being presented through letters to the 117 clubs in different parts of the state, and was formally presented to the Federated Clubs of Atlanta yesterday.

"The opportunity comes at the mo-

TWO BURLY WATCHMEN KEEPING WOMEN APART

Washington Authorities Don't Intend for Suffragettes and Anti-Suffragettes to Fight.

Washington, February 20.—Within a block of each other, two burly private watchmen tonight are parading up and down before the headquarters of the Woman's Suffrage association and those of the anti-suffragettes. The appointment of the watchmen was made necessary, leaders of the two movements declare, because of strained feelings that recently have arisen with the establishment of the anti-suffragette offices within so short a distance of the advocates of equal suffrage.

Headquarters of the "antis" were opened today. In the handsomely decorated window facing a main thoroughfare was placed a quantity of literature against the suffrage cause, much of it couched in caustic terms which the suffragists, only a short distance away, resent. Fearing that the latter might resort to violence, the antis decided to engage the services of the biggest watchman they could find. Not to be outdone, the suffragists enlisted the services of another physical giant.

The active campaign of the anti-suffragists will begin tomorrow, according to Miss Minnie Bronson, general secretary of the association. A vast quantity of literature will be distributed and every member of congress and cabinet officers will be interviewed by women who are opposed to the suffrage cause.

Lady Patricia Street, daughter of Sir Paul Eliot, late chief justice of the supreme court of Australia, returned from New York today, where she went to let the contracts for the costumes to be worn by the marchers and others in the suffrage pageant, March 3. Lady Patricia said that more than 200 women from New York city would come to the capital to take part in the pageant.

AT BAR

MADERO CALLED TO STAND TRIAL BEFORE HIS FOES

Deposed President Accused of Murder and of Looting Treasury—Huerta Cabinet to Decide Fate.

FEARED THAT MADERO WOULD USE LIBERTY TO HATCH NEW PLOTS

For This Reason Plan to Send Him Into Exile Was Balked—Huerta and Cabinet Sworn—Felix Diaz Is a Popular Hero.

Mexico City, February 20.—That Francisco Madero will get out of Mexico without having to face official investigation for one thing or another now appears improbable. He already has been charged with responsibility for the death of Colonel Riveroll, whom he is alleged to have shot at the time of his arrest in the palace.

A committee of deputies now has asked that Madero be forced to account for moneys expended by the administration. This committee called on President Huerta this afternoon and urged that Madero be held accountable for the depleted condition of the treasury.

General Huerta was on the point of permitting Madero and Suarez to leave the country, but was counseled to delay action by close friends, who considered it probable that Madero would use his freedom to hatch new plots.

The provisional president declared he would place the case of Madero before the cabinet ministers immediately after they were sworn into office.

Lunacy Charge Against Madero.

There appeared a strong probability today that the appointment of a lunacy commission to examine him would be urged as a solution.

Senora Madero and the other women related to the ex-president spent the forenoon in worried speculation. They were mystified and deeply apprehensive on account of General Huerta's refusal last night to permit the departure of Madero and Suarez, after all had been prepared for their exile.

The anxiety of the women was not relieved until shortly before noon, when they were informed of the state of affairs.

In the meantime Madero and Suarez were confined in rooms which had been assigned to them in the national palace, and from which the guards were never absent.

They were in a state of deep dejection, as they had been informed of Gustavo Madero's death, and were deeply concerned as to their own fate.

When informed of the provisional president's intention to permit the cabinet to settle his fate, Madero appeared not greatly relieved. He sat sullenly refusing to answer questions.

Madero's trial before the cabinet ministers will, it is said, find Francisco de la Barra almost alone in counselling moderation and clemency. Rodolfo Reyes, the minister of justice, is likely to remember the death of his father.

C. F. von HERRMANN, Section Director.

General Reyes, in the attack on the palace, and the high-handed manner in which he considers Madero treated him. With the exception possibly of two others, all the ministers have personal grievances, thus making the cabinet jury scarcely a friendly one.

Huerta and Advisers Sworn.

The last details of the organization of Mexico's new government were completed at 4 o'clock this afternoon, when members of President Huerta's official family took the oath in the yellow room in the palace, immediately above that occupied by the deposed president and vice president.

Although unable to witness the scenes from their room, Madero and Suarez could hear plaudits of the crowds in the streets and in the big square in front, and the bugle calls of the united army. Significant of the birth of the new administration was the frank display of soldiers and the effect on the crowds was not lost.

It served as a reminder that even if it was not a military dictatorship that had been established the present administration was of much sterner quality than that which had just fallen.

General Felix Diaz was among those in the yellow room when the ministers took the oath and heard pronounced the formal time-honored phrase: "If you keep this oath the country will reward you; if you do not it will call you to an accounting."

General Diaz was present ostensibly in no official capacity, but merely as a private citizen, which he became many months ago on resigning his commission as a general in the regular army.

Madero and Suarez Dejected.

Madero and Pino Suarez betrayed in their faces the chagrin and humiliation which they must have felt, according to officers of the guard. Neither deigned to ask questions as to what was happening in the room above, but the conversation of the guards served to acquaint them with the proceedings. Anger showed on the face of Madero, but the dejection of the former vice president was too great apparently to permit a play of other emotions.

Federico Gonzales Garza, the former governor of the federal district, is the third prisoner occupying the room. There is no partition. Each man is furnished with a bed and meals are brought periodically and served jointly. Madero has ceased to refuse food and so far as personal comfort is concerned he no longer resists efforts in that direction.

Outside the room stands a guard of soldiers, and although there are no windows in the room another guard is constantly on duty within, even during the sleeping hours.

No one has been allowed to talk with the prisoners, although their wives have been permitted to send verbal messages. Madero has signified nothing regarding his future plans, even if permitted to leave the country.

Maderos May Go to South America.

Members of his family are equally reticent, but by those most intimate with them it is considered not improbable that the entire family will emigrate to South America, if the opportunity is afforded them.

Gustavo Madero, who was shot yesterday, remarked on one occasion that South America had been considered as a refuge just before it became evident that the government of Porfirio Diaz was weakening. The Maderos about that time considered that they were beaten and had made all arrangements to buy property in South America.

The treasury department is at present closed, pending its formal delivery to the new authorities by the retiring minister of finance, Ernesto Madero. All the other offices of the government are open for the conduct of affairs, as usual.

The arsenal has been formally delivered over to General Banquet, the new commander of the post. The Diaz forces were roundly cheered as they marched out.

General Diaz came into his own late this afternoon so far as a manifestation of popular approval was concerned. Riding at the head of his troops, which for nine days withstood attacks of the government, Diaz received such an ovation as had not been witnessed here since the triumphal entry of Madero at the close of his revolution.

Crowds Cheered Diaz.

Crowds filled the streets to witness the march of the troops from the arsenal and the big square in front of the national palace, where the troops passed in review before the new president, was one great mass of humanity.

General Diaz, true to his standing as a retired army officer, was dressed in civilian clothes. He was on horseback. A detachment of troops followed and then a line of carriages containing the new members of the cabinet. At the palace Diaz and his staff were received by President Huerta in a most cordial manner and felicitations were exchanged. Flags floated everywhere along the line of march, and the appearance of Diaz was the signal for a great demonstration.

At the close of the review the troops were dispatched to the different barracks. The crowds continued their jollification; thousands marched through the downtown district, carrying banners and dividing the "vivas" between the popular idols—Huerta, the president, and Diaz, the conqueror.

All political prisoners throughout the country have been ordered released by President Huerta. One hundred and fifty prisoners in the penitentiary here, hitherto overlooked, were discovered this afternoon and set free.

Diaz Denies Killing Gustavo Madero.

Felix Diaz today denied responsibility for the execution of Gustavo Madero and Adolfo Basso, superintendent of the national palace. The official report of the death of Gustavo Madero says:

"He was being removed from one part of the arsenal to another when he made a dash for liberty. The officers in charge fired at him and killed him."

The death of Gustavo Madero is still a chief topic of conversation among the populace. Many people today sought for souvenirs of the dead politician, and one person paid $25 for a fragment of his eyeglass.

Juan Sanchez Ascona, private secretary of Francisco Madero, and Jesus Urueta, Madero's chief supporter in the chamber of deputies, were added to the list of prisoners yesterday. They had escaped from the city in an automobile during the upheaval at the national palace, but were captured between here and the coast.

A telegram was sent today to the Paris residence of Porfirio Diaz, the former dictator, who is now in Paris, by Felix Diaz, his nephew, and General Huerta, the new provisional president, in which the aged general was informed:

"You have been avenged against your former enemy."

Diaz to Run for President.

Felix Diaz will enter the race for the presidency. Probably General Huerta will not run against him.

One reason why Diaz made no effort to secure the provisional presidency for himself was his wish to be entirely free to organize and direct his party in the coming campaign.

General Huerta regards himself as nothing more than a provisional president, and declared frankly today that general elections will be held promptly for selecting a permanent administration.

"The Huerta administration has made no plans or promises, nor is it handicapped by promises made by Felix Diaz," declared its leader today. "It begins as a business administration, promising nothing more than good government."

In an effort to satisfy a popular demand, a new portfolio has been added to the cabinet—that of agriculture. This is held by Manuel Garza Aldape, who was identified with the rebel movement in the north and is now under bail on a charge of violating the neutrality laws of the United States. Senor Aldape's chief work will be to study out a solution of the agrarian problem, which has been the subject of attack by rebels both in the north and south.

3,000 Killed, 7,000 Wounded.

The closest estimates obtainable of the casualties during the fighting in the streets show that about 3,000 persons were killed and 7,000 wounded.

In most cases no official records were made of the bodies which were gathered up, carted to open spaces outside the city and burned.

Numerous entire families were wiped out by exploding shells or by machine gun fire.

The great majority of the dead were non-combatants, including a large proportion of women and children.

The wording of the joint resignation of Francisco Madero and Jose Pino Suarez was made public today. It is in marked contrast to the usual verbose documents written in such cases. It says:

"In view of the events which have occurred from first to last in the nation and for the greater peace of our country, we make this formal resignation of our posts of president and vice president."

There Will Be More War.

Only the most optimistic residents of the Mexican capital pretend to believe that the substitution of General Huerta for Francisco Madero will result in the restoration of complete peace throughout the republic. It remains to be seen how many of the rebel leaders will accept the invitation extended to them by Huerta to join in an effort to restore normal conditions.

It appears to be taken for granted that Emiliano Zapata, "the irreconcilable rebel," will continue at head of his powerful force in the south, while Vasquez Gomez, by the issue of his proclamation proclaiming the presidency, has rendered conditions in the north problematical.

Those familiar with the propaganda of the northern rebels express the belief that Pascual Orozco, Inez Salazar and other leaders may not be satisfied with the selection of only one of their comrades, David de la Fuente, as a cabinet minister.

The new administration will not temporize with any of the rebels. It declares that all that is possible will be done to effect a reconciliation, but in the event of failure in this direction, it proposes to wage vigorous warfare.

Huerta on Soldier's Oath.

A new interpretation of the soldier's oath of allegiance, which doubtless will stand as a precedent, was given by General Huerta in an address to the students of the military school at Tlalpam today. These students were the ones who began the revolt in the capital.

Although Huerta directed the campaign against Felix Diaz with vigor for more than a week, he told these boys that they acted properly and lived up to their obligations as army men in "striking for the welfare of their country." All of them received commissions as lieutenants.

HAVOC BEING WROUGHT BY THE SUFFRAGETTES

They Visit London Botanical Gardens and Apply Torch. Two Girls Arrested.

London, February 20.—Suffragettes paid another havoc-working visit to the Kew Botanical gardens today and fired a large refreshment pavillion which burned to the ground. Two women were arrested.

The two young women taken into custody gave their names as Lillian Lenton and Joyce Locke, each 22 years old.

They were caught while running away from the scene of the fire. Each carried a bag containing a dark lantern, cotton soaked in oil, a hammer and a saw.

When brought up at the police court the magistrate refused to allow them bail. They were told by the court that their offense was not political, but highly criminal. Miss Locke thereupon hurled at the magistrate a big law book, which narrowly missed his head. She then fought desperately against the wardens who were assigned to remove her to a cell. On a previous occasion, three months ago, Miss Locke threw one of her shoes at the head of an Aberdeen magistrate. She was charged with carrying explosives to a hall where Chancellor Lloyd-George was to speak.

HIS ACTIVE TONGUE CAUSED HIS ARREST

Santa Fe, N. M., February 20.—Excitement was caused in the lower house of the legislature this afternoon when Speaker R. L. Baca instructed the sergeant-at-arms to arrest Representative W. K. Blanchard because Blanchard persisted in addressing the speaker after he had been ordered by the presiding officer to resume his seat.

It is said Speaker Baca bases his authority for having Blanchard arrested on the fact that he is assistant mayor of Santa Fe and that the action was necessary to preserve the peace.

A writ of habeas corpus was immediately asked for and Blanchard was released on his own recognizance.

Bishop Candler to Preach.—Bishop Warren A. Candler on February 23 will preach at the 11 o'clock service at Payne Memorial church. He has recently returned from Cuba, where he has been reviewing the mission stations of the church. On February 25 Bishop Candler goes to Emory college to deliver his annual course of lectures.

PAROLE LAW IS PASSED BY TENNESSEE SOLONS

Nashville, Tenn., February 20.—The parole and interminate sentence bill passed the house of representatives today by a vote of 78 to 1. The measure had previously passed the senate, and will be signed by Governor Hooper, as it is one of the administration measures. The convicts at the main prison were much interested in this legislation, and recently gave a convict minstrel at which a majority of the members of the general assembly were present. Tennessee has no parole bill except an ancient statute barely covering the subject, and which had not been used for over fifty years until resurrected by Governor Hooper.

Retired Georgia Planter's Advice to Kidney Sufferers
Regarding the wonderful curative merits of your Swamp-Root, I cannot say too much. After suffering severely for three years or more with severe pains caused by weak kidneys I was finally induced to try Swamp-Root through a testimonial I read in one of the newspapers. I was in such a condition that I was obliged to arise from my bed six or eight times every night. I purchased a fifty-cent bottle and before it was used I felt so much relief that I purchased a one-dollar bottle and by the time this was taken the old pains had left my back and I could sleep the whole night through. I am a retired planter, 70 years of age, and owing to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, I am in the best of health and feel like a boy. I am always glad to recommend Swamp-Root to those who are in need of it.
Sincerely yours,
C. E. USSERY,
Bowersville, Ga.

WALL STREET HISSES, "DON'T WORRY SULZER"

Albany, N. Y., February 20.—Governor Sulzer does not take seriously alleged threats of New York stock exchange members to leave this state if the governor's legislative stock exchange reform program is carried out.

"I understand," said the governor in a statement today, "that my name was greeted with hisses at a dinner of stock exchange men last night. In the performance of my duty, as I see it, I care very little about the hisses of the stock exchange crowd. They say they are going to leave New York. They will leave, no doubt, when the moon falls."

New York, February 20.—Governors of the New York stock exchange voted today to "oppose vigorously" the passage of a pending state bill to increase the stock transfer tax from 2 to 4 cents a share.

Deadlock Not Broken.

Springfield, Ill., February 20.—The double senatorial deadlock will not be broken this week under an agreement among Illinois legislators made after today's joint session. The two houses will stand adjourned until next Wednesday.

NO EPIDEMIC MENACE IN TUBERCULAR COWS

In the crusade against tubercular and infected cattle being made by the city and state health authorities only four cows were found yesterday that were condemned from further use and ordered slaughtered. These were discovered during the inspection of the W. L. Tuggle dairy, located near Copenhill.

Following the general scare that spread over the city when eighty tubercular cows were found by the health inspectors in two dairy herds on the Flat Shoals road, the quieting declaration comes from Dr. Peter F. Bahnsen that there is no general tuberculosis epidemic among cattle, and he points to the result of Thursday's inspections to allay the apprehension.

"We don't expect to find anything like the high percentage of diseased cattle among the herds in and around Atlanta that we found in the Crane and Downing dairies," said Dr. Bahnsen Thursday. "In the dairy of Mr. Tuggle the four we condemned were from a total of seventy-one cows, all the others being in healthy condition.

"We will continue the inspection, but with the idea of discovering the scattered cases and preventing a general spread of the disease, rather than a crusade against any existing epidemic."

Twelve cattle of the E. B. Crane dairy on the Flat Shoals road were slaughtered Thursday, being part of the fifty-four discovered to be infected. Their hides were taken to be used for leather and their bodies were to be ground in the fertilizer mill to become commercial land fertilizer. All the cows condemned by the inspectors are forever forbidden from further use as milch cows, but if after being quarantined the signs of disease disappear, they are sometimes slaughtered for beef.

Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech.

Washington, February 20.—Because protests have been made that there are many different versions of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech and it is proposed to have the speech inscribed on the Lincoln memorial to be built here, the senate today adopted Senator Root's resolution authorizing a committee to report the correct version.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM BENSEL TO CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM BENSEL.
Soon to celebrate half a century of wedded life.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bensel have issued invitations for a reception on Tuesday evening, February 25, from 7 until 10 o'clock, at 66 East Ellis street, the occasion to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Bensel have lived in Atlanta for thirty-five years. Mrs. Bensel was a Miss Emma Edgerton prior to her marriage. Mr. Bensel has been a prominent Atlanta contractor and builder of many mills and churches throughout the south.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MEET

Western Division of Atlanta Hears Experts Talk.

At last night's session of the Sunday school convention of the western division of Atlanta, which is being held in the Park Street Methodist church, A. R. Colcord, who is chairman of the police committee of the city council and president of the division, presided.

Rev. George A. Joplin, general secretary of the Kentucky Sunday School association, spoke on "Reaching the Men." He told something of the great movement that has been sweeping not only over America, but over the world in the last few years, reaching thousands of men and bringing them in touch with the organized Sunday school movement. He discussed at length the methods of organizing efficient classes of young men.

At the afternoon session Thursday Mr. Joplin also delivered an able address, his subject being "Team Work." He showed the necessity of full cooperation of every department of the Sunday school. D. W. Sims, general secretary of the Georgia Sunday School association, spoke also at the afternoon session on "The Banner Sunday School Standard."

Mrs. James D. Allen, the newly-appointed secondary division superintendent of the Georgia Sunday School association, spoke Thursday night on "The Social Life of the Sunday School." Mrs. Allen recently moved to Atlanta from Texas.

POWER CO. IS INDICTED

Dam on Ocmulgee River Is Styled Nuisance.

Jackson, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—The Central Georgia Power company, of Macon, of which Judge W. H. Felton is president, has been indicted by the Butts county grand jury for maintaining a nuisance in connection with its power plant on the Ocmulgee river. This action on the part of the grand jury caused the keenest interest here, where many of the people are directly interested.

It is held that the reservoir caused by the building of the power dam is a breeding place for mosquitoes and that it produces an unhealthy condition, and that the people are unable to live near it. For these reasons, a large number of suits have been filed against the company in the city court of Jackson, the suits aggregating more than $100,000.

Last fall, in the city court of Jackson, the power company was convicted of maintaining a nuisance, and Judge Fletcher imposed a fine of $1,000. This case was reversed by the court of appeals last week.

WHITEHEAD SENTENCED TO YEAR AT STATE FARM

Columbus, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—Dr. W. F. Whitehead, who was yesterday found guilty of assault with intent to murder Ruby Osborn, aged 19 and unmarried, by performing a criminal operation, was today sentenced by Judge S. P. Gilbert, of the superior court, to serve one year on the state farm at Milledgeville.

The jury, in returning its verdict, recommended that the defendant be punished as if for a misdemeanor, and Judge Gilbert granted the recommendation.

Appeals were made by attorneys for the defendant and by friends to the court to be light, and it was understood that if the court would grant the recommendation of the jury no appeal would be taken.

The trial of Claud B. Gullatt, mayor of Phenix City, Ala., indicted as accessory before the fact to the same charge, will be placed on trial on March 3. Tom Pace and Bill Jenkins (colored) are also under indictments similar to that of Gullatt.

In order to permit Dr. Whitehead to settle his business affairs and also to allow him to testify in the cases that have been made against others named, Judge Gilbert allowed a motion for appeal for a new trial to be entered on the docket, with the understanding that it would not be pushed.

PLANS MILL TO GRIND TOOMBS' WHEAT CROP

Vidalia, Ga., February 20.—(Special.) Preparations are being made by George C. Chambers, of Augusta, for the establishment of a roller flour mill in this city and it is probable that the mill will be ready for operation in ample time to take care of the next wheat crop.

Several of the more progressive farmers of this territory have already demonstrated that wheat can be successfully cultivated in Toombs and adjoining counties. The only drawback to the culture of this important grain crop heretofore has been the lack of facilities for converting the wheat into flour. In the past it has been necessary to send the wheat grown in this section to Augusta and other places to be ground.

The establishment of a flour mill here is sure to result in considerable acreage being planted in wheat next season, and it is thought that when the mill is installed here the farmers will plant at least enough wheat for home consumption.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL IS FILED FOR A. L. LYNN

Dublin, Ga., February 20.—(Special.) Motion for a new trial has been filed for A. L. Lynn, sentenced last week to life imprisonment for the murder of F. M. Hightower, the motion to be heard by Judge K. J. Hawkins March 22.

The execution of the sentence will be delayed until the proceedings have been heard. Lynn's attorneys are Messrs. George B. Davis and S. P. New, who will make the argument and have stated that the plea for abatement overruled at the beginning of the trial will also be carried to a higher court.

Immunity Bill Passed.

Nashville, Tenn., February 20.—The "immunity bill," providing immunity for witnesses appearing before a committee to investigate state offices during the legislative recess, passed the house of representatives today by a vote of 68 to 12, after a long and at times acrimonious debate.

MAKE ALANTA REAL BRIGADE POST URGES MAJOR WALTER HALE

"Atlanta is the logical point for the second brigade post, but it should be the brigade post in fact as well as on paper," said Major Walter S. Hale, past commander-in-chief of the Spanish-American war veterans, last night. "You want your ordnance, arms and ammunition, food and clothing where the troops can be equipped in a moment's notice if necessary.

"Atlanta is a railway terminal and any man with brains should see the advantage of locating all the troops at the brigade post, instead of just one regiment."

Major Hale, who soldiered in the Philippines for three years, prophecies a liberal policy towards Latin America. As for indepnedence in the Philippines, the major says he holds about the same opinion of the little brown brother as many others who have chased him with the bayonet, and had the compliments of the season passed in return with a bolo.

Major Hale, who is a Boston real estate man and a deep-dyed-in-the-wool New England democrat, expects great things of Woodrow Wilson. "Wilson is a genuine progressive," said Major Hale. "He is not an absolute free trader and neither is Underwood. With these men as the leaders of democracy the United States will have a fine business administration."

C. W. CATTLEDGE DIES AS RESULT OF ASSAULT

Valdosta, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—C. W. Cattledge, of this city, who was found lying in the street bloody and unconscious on Tuesday morning, died at the Bellevue hospital this afternoon. Cattledge's injuries were regarded as fatal from the first. His skull had been crushed in two or three places, and his brains were oozing from his head when found.

Clarence Jones, a negro, with whom Cattledge had trouble, is suspected of the assault. He disappeared on the day the affair occurred, and the officers are unable to find any trace of him.

TWO COUNTIES TO HOLD INSTITUTE IN VIDALIA

Vidalia, Ga., February 20.—(Special.) Arrangements have been perfected whereby the annual teachers' institutes of the counties of Toombs and Emanuel will be held jointly in this city, beginning on March 10 and continuing for five days.

Governor-elect John M. Slaton has been invited to deliver an address to the teachers during the institute and has written that he will accept, provided he can make arrangements to be here at that time. Other prominent speakers and educators have also been invited to attend.

The attendance of the teachers is compulsory and the institute will doubtless be one of the most successful ever held in this section. The teachers will be entertained by the citizens of this place.

No More Quick Divorces.

Carson City, Nev., February 20.—Governor Oddie today signed the Barnes amendment to the divorce law. It becomes effective January 1, 1914. After that date an applicant for divorce must have lived in Nevada a year instead of six months.

JUDGE SPEER COMPLETES 28 YEARS ON U. S. BENCH

Savannah, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—Judge Emory Speer, of the United States court, yesterday celebrated the twenty-eighth anniversary of his appointment as a federal judge. He was heartily congratulated during the day by members of the bar and other personal friends, who wished him many more such anniversaries.

When Judge Speer first took his seat there were no interstate commerce laws, no anti-trust laws, no pure food laws and no laws recognizing union labor.

FOR POINTING PISTOL BLACKBURN IS FINED

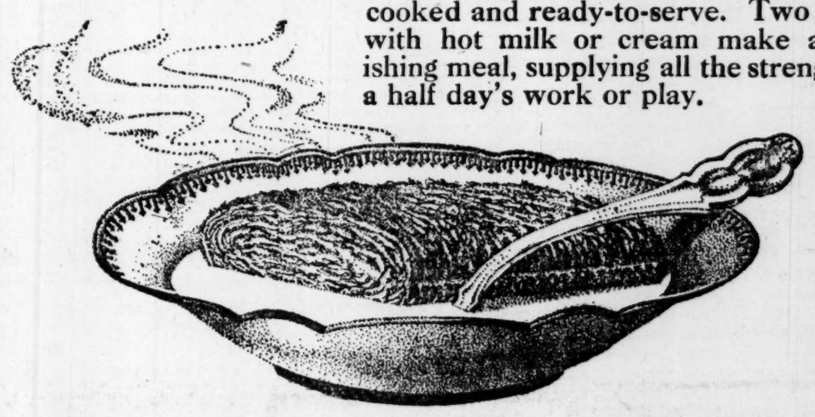

Nashville, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—Henry Blackburn, who went to the school building here Monday with a revolver in his hand to see Professor Hunter, who had whipped Blackburn's daughter, was tried in the city court here. He was fined $100 for carrying a pistol without license. He was also fined $50 for pointing the pistol at Principal Hunter.

MAKING FOR PEACE.

A statement in parliament by Winston Churchill of British policy as regards the rivalry between Germany and Great Britain in the matter of naval enlargement has brought about worldwide approval, and the best part of it is that the British policy is declared to be acceptable to the Germans.

It now appears that there is not only a possibility, but a probability, of a naval understanding between Great Britain and Germany, the effect of which would be felt in every one of the great powers which are now stripping themselves and their people in the mad rush to see which can sink the most in dreadnaughts.

Mr. Churchill's statement was made on the naval estimates of last year, but public attention has been only recently attracted to the attitude of the British government, as expressed in his remarks, by the response just made in the reichstag by Von Jagow, German foreign minister, and by Admiral von Tirpitz, both of whom, in emphasizing the very happy relations existing between Germany and Great Britain, accepted the standard of supremacy for the British navy, as outlined by Mr. Churchill, who said:

The actual standard in new construction which the admiralty has followed during recent years has been to develop a 60 per cent superiority in vessels of the dreadnaught type over the German navy on the basis of the existing fleet law. I must not be taken as agreeing that the ratio of 16 to 10 could be regarded as sufficient preponderance for British naval strength as a whole above that of the next strongest naval power. We are able for the present to adhere to so moderate a standard because of our great superiority in vessels of the pre-dreadnaught era.

Continuing in further defining the British policy and in making it clear that the attitude of his government in this matter would be largely controlled by the Germans, Mr. Churchill said:

Let me make clear, however, that any retardation or reduction in German construction will within certain limits be promptly followed here, as soon as it is apparent, by large and fully proportional reductions. . . . Here then is perfectly plain and simple plan of arrangement, whereby without any diplomatic negotiation, without any bargaining, without the slightest restriction upon the sovereign freedom of either power, this keen and costly naval rivalry can be at any time abated. It is better, I am sure, to put it quite frankly, for the parliaments and peoples to judge for themselves.

The friendly reception of the British attitude by the Germans is strikingly significant. The announcement has been received with marked cordiality in Austria and among the other European governments, and it is believed that it paves the way for complete naval understanding among the European powers, the effect of which would at once be felt in the United States.

For the past few years it has seemed that it has been the German policy not only to keep apace of Britain in the matter of dreadnaught construction, but to increase the annual naval output of the empire at a greater ratio than that of its neighbor across the channel. The world has been given to understand, inferentially, that it was Germany's intention to have a navy as large as Britain's, and that at no distant day. As Germany built Britain built more, and the mad rivalry has affected every other country. That it would have in time resulted disastrously there can be no doubt.

Britain now takes the position that she is entitled to ten dreadnaughts to Germany's six, and that it is her purpose to maintain that ratio at whatever cost, letting Germany fix the basis. In other words, if Germany floats twelve dreadnaughts England will not be satisfied with less than twenty, or if Germany is satisfied with nothing less than twenty-four, England will have forty.

It is of worldwide importance that Germany recognizes and accepts the British position. The Vienna Neue Freie Press declares that the understanding will affect the budget of every country in the world, "and is likely to lead to the happiest consequences for all."

The London Chronicle, in discussing the tendency toward an Anglo-German entente, as indicated by the event, says that "it fixes for the first time something like a basis of agreement. There has not yet been much time for German comment, but it is already clear that Germany will welcome this method of beginning the great task of reducing the pace in the armaments race."

Of its effect upon the trend for world-wide peace, The Chronicle well says:

Anglo-German rivalry has had bad effects everywhere; the budgets of all the great powers have felt it. With its disappearance the relief will be general and welcome, and in the new era which we hope is heralded the forces working for world-peace will receive a still more powerful support and reinforcement.

A NEFARIOUS SYSTEM.

The advocates of the "scientifically adjusted" public building "pork" bill overwhelmed protest in the national house and crushed opposition, passing the measure in a riotous outburst of enthusiasm, notwithstanding the bitter protest of Chairman Fitzgerald of the committee on appropriations, and of some of the other democrats who agreed with him.

The bill now goes to the senate, and it remains to be seen whether or not it will have as easy sailing there as it had in the house. If it does the president would have an admirable opening for another veto.

When Chairman Fitzgerald, in protesting against the passage of the bill in the house, said that it was "so scientifically framed that it would pass," he meant to say that it was so constructed that it would pass regardless of its notorious defects. Enough members, both republicans and democrats, had been sufficiently fed at the pork trough to guarantee affirmative action.

As passed the bill contained large appropriations for public buildings in places so small as to be unknown. Some of them are not even on the maps. Some towns with population around 2,000 got appropriations of $60,000, while other towns several times as large got only half as much—depending entirely upon the attitude of the members from the respective districts. Those who held out for big stakes got them—those who did not were asleep.

There was a complete lack of any basis or system in the forming of the bill, notwithstanding the fact that the government is presumed to have a public building policy by which such appropriations shall be based upon the size of the town, postoffice receipts, etc.

President Wilson could do no wiser thing than to make a decided stand on this issue, bringing government appropriations nearer a basis of merit, and at any rate discouraging the system of political trading by which most of these pork bills are now rushed through congress.

THE "FLATFOOTED" HUSBAND.

A novel suit for divorce is that of a woman out west whose only grievance is that her husband is "flatfooted!"

Now, here is a man who is a good provider; who gives her gowns when she wants them, and does not beat the collector when he comes with the bill for the new spring hat; who minds the baby while she is canvassing for "Votes for Women," and doubtless regards the advent of his mother-in-law as a benediction; who doesn't reel home in the small hours and mistake a cigar stump for his latch key; yet he's all to the bad because he came into the world "flatfooted!"

But he deserves no sympathy. A man who is "flatfooted" and doesn't stand that way on his marital rights should be sentenced for life to scour the kitchen and burn the biscuits between lectures to the tune of: "What Fools You Mortals Be!"

JOAQUIN MILLER.

On the lonely California heights there passed, but recently, the spirit of the most typical American poet. In the chorus of singers his was the voice that rose strong and clear above them all—a sure and splendid utterance of love and life. The heart of the hills, the dreams of the valleys, informed his verse, and bright on his soul was written, as he himself has sung, "the awful autograph of God."

Reserved—apart—almost an exile from the life and world he knew so well, the message of the mountains came down to him in no uncertain voice, and the free plains sent greetings to his soul. His "Songs of the Sunlands," and of "The Sierras," are among the most notable contributions to American literature, breathing the very breath of a new century of song.

He has worthily won an exalted place among the American Immortals.

The man who is continually denying that he has been asked to enter the cabinet is also in the unnecessary noise class.

The new nickel may be a beaut, but at the present cost of living any old nickel looks like a dream.

Strange it hasn't occurred to Governor Wilson to bar the college yell from the inaugural parade.

By this time he must be mad enough to smash some of the cabinet slates over the heads of the makers.

Still, Mr. Taft may settle a few old scores when he becomes contributing editor to a certain college paper.

Turkey says she has "just begun to fight." But it's unfortunate that she is too late to be lively.

It isn't far to Washington's birthday, but millionaires before investigating committees will take the cherry tree story with a grain of salt.

The Billville Cabinet Makers.

"The cabinet makers in this section have been hauled up before the mayor on the vagrant act, and quite a number of them have been sentenced to work the roads. This thing of runnin' the government from the old pine box by the grocery store is about played out in this section. It don't go any more. We believe if the government is given a fair show it will prove that it can run itself, without outside reinforcements. We had a cabinet slate of our own, but we were wise enough to smash it before anybody found it out."

The Loafing Brigade.

There stands the office seekers, a-loafin' all the day,
While we're needin' folks to plow the land an' bring the grass to hay;
There ain't a chance to shame him—the office is in sight,
An' he's loafin' from the mornin' till the stars come out at night.

"Go 'long," I tell him;
Time to rise an' shine;"
But his eye is on the office
An' he's in the waitin' line.

He doesn't mind the weather; be it shine or snow,
He's on the road to office, a-hikin' high an' low.
He's sure enlisted for the war—still willin' for to wait,
Swingin' forever on the creakin' office-gate!

"Go 'long," I tell him,
"An' help the country grow!"
But he's trampin' to the office
Through sunshine an' snow!

THANKS.

By George Matthew Adams.

Get the Thank habit.

It is one of the best habits that you can form. Think for a moment. Did you ever regret a "Thank you," received from anybody? Did it ever make you feel mean, dissatisfied, out of sorts? Has it ever brought you a feeling of remorse for service rendered? Well, then—

Get the Thank habit.

It is not necessary to express in mere words at all times your feeling of Thankfulness. Once get the habit thoroughly and you will LIVE it unconsciously. Thankful men and women show in their very eyes and attitude that they have the habit. It's the most "showy" quality possible. It's contagious, too.

Get the Thank habit.

You meet a gruff, inhuman being. He shows some service, as though he was a soft of mechanical device. You Thank him. He at once becomes Human! Thankfulness acts like a powerful stimulant both on yourself and upon other people. It transforms. All days are fine days, all people are square people, all happenings are for the best to the one who has thoroughly mastered the "Thank Habit."

Get the Thank habit.

Get it by always acknowledging a service with a Thank You. If your Clerk, or Waiter or Secretary, or Partner, or Friend does a service—no matter how small—hand over the Thanks—freely, with a broad, healthy Smile. It's a great investment. The Dividends simply roll back to you.

Get the Thank habit.

Thanks are the Diamonds in The Golden Rule. And to Thank is the most dignified habit among all the useful habits. Men have been known to lay down their lives for a Thank You—a sincere desire to repay through appreciation—in other words, by way of the Thank route.

Get the Thank habit.

Thanks are the Diamonds in the Golden Rule. And to Thank is the most dignified habit among all the useful habits. Men have been known to lay down their lives for a Thank You—a sincere desire to repay through appreciation—in other words, by way of the Thank route.

Get the Thank habit.

Get it Today. You may not need it tomorrow. For there may be no tomorrow. The time to start to form a good habit is NOW. And of all habits, the Thank habit is the easiest to form and to teach to others. And the satisfaction that it returns to you is a precious thing. Every minute that you put off forming this habit, you put off the culmination of joys that rightfully belong to you. Start now to—

Get the Thank habit.

New News of Yesterday

A Banker's Advice to the Secretary of the Treasury.

By E. J. Edwards.
(Copyrighted, 1913, for The Constitution.)

This daily series of anecdotes and incidents that throw new, interesting and frequently dramatic light on famous events and personalities of the past have been collected by Mr. Edwards during nearly forty years of more or less intimate acquaintance with many of the country's leaders since the Civil War. Each anecdote or incident is fresh from Mr. Edwards' notebook, and, either in whole or in part, it constitutes NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY, garnered from the men who made the news—the history—or from equally authoritative sources. As important contributions of the "human interest" sort to American history, these articles have a distinctive value all their own.

"I have sometimes wondered whether William Pitt Fessenden, had he remained in Lincoln's cabinet as secretary of the treasury, would have been able to work out a suggestion which was made to him by John M. Forbes, of Boston, and if he had, whether an important new feature of investment in the United States would have been demonstrated to the people."

E. J. Edwards.

This remark was made to me by the late George S. Coe, who was one of the leading bankers of the United States at the time of the civil war, and who was frequently brought into confidential relations with the secretary of the treasury, Salmon P. Chase, and later with Mr. Fessenden when he had become secretary of the treasury, and who was also a close personal friend of John M. Forbes.

"Mr. Forbes made many valuable suggestions to the treasury department of which the public had no knowledge," said Mr. Coe. "Such confidence had Secretary Chase in him that he sent him to England upon a secret mission, in 1863, to negotiate a loan of $10,000,000 in gold with Baring Brothers.

"Mr. Forbes, I remember well, was confident that if the people of the United States had an opportunity to lend their money to the government in the form of investment in government securities hundreds of millions would have poured into the treasury from that source. But at that time our government did not understand how a great popular loan could be negotiated directly between the government and the people. We were making our loans through fiscal agents and by the machinery of national banks, which when organized bought government bonds. But the government did not seem to reach the people directly excepting through taxation.

"I think it was only a few months after Senator Fessenden became secretary of the treasury, as successor of Governor Chase, who had been appointed chief justice of the supreme court by President Lincoln, when Mr. Forbes made a suggestion to him which I have often thought would, had it been adopted, have proved to be of incalculable value to the American people.

"Mr. Forbes said to Secretary Fessenden: 'Within the last year you must have seen that the people are ready to invest in government securities. Now I am satisfied that if you will only work out a plan whereby the people can easily invest in these securities, you will find that they will buy all the securities you issue and as rapidly as you could wish them to.'

"In reply Secretary Fessenden said that if Mr. Forbes would only suggest a plan by which this could be done, then the treasury department would give it careful consideration, and if it were found feasible the plan would be adopted.

"'Why, you don't need to ask me for the plan,' Mr. Forbes replied. 'I know you don't think much of Louis Napoleon, who with his invasion of Mexico is giving President Lincoln a good deal of trouble, but there is one thing he has done which you might adopt, and I think you would have the same success which he has met with in France.'

"When Secretary Fessenden asked for an explanation of this remark, Mr. Forbes said that Louis Napoleon had caused the national securities of France to be issued in very small denominations. Many millions were issued in bonds which were for only twenty francs, or about $4 of American money. These little bonds were gladly bought by the French people. They were easily bought because the denominations were so small. Now if you will issue government bonds in denominations of ten, twenty and fifty dollars you will find that the American people will buy them as fast as you can issue them, and it will be a great deal better to do that than to go on issuing irredeemable paper money, which your greenbacks are.'

"Fessenden was very much taken with this idea, and I know that he gave it a great deal of consideration. But the state of Maine sent it back to the federal senate before he had time to work out the plan. I have never had any doubt that if the government had issued large amounts of these bonds, in denominations of ten, twenty and fifty dollars, the people of the United States, the plain people, as Lincoln called them, would have furnished the government all they needed."

Tomorrow Mr. Edwards will tell of "A Merchant's Advice to the British Prime Minister."

The World's Mysteries

WAS GROUCHY A TRAITOR TO NAPOLEON?

Why did General Grouchy fail to render the proper assistance to Napoleon at the battle of Waterloo? Was he a traitor to Napoleon? Was he a traitor to his country? And did he sell a victory, and what was the price? These are questions that the French people have asked themselves over and over again during the past century. Victor Hugo settles the question in very laconic and magisterial fashion. After his glowing description of Waterloo in "Les Miserables," he says:

"Was it possible that Napoleon should win this battle? We answer no. Why? Because of Wellington? Because of Blucher? No. Because of God."

The question, "What part had Grouchy in Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo" or, "was his failure to arrive in time the reason why the battle was lost?" is at least not satisfactorily answered in "Grouchy's Memoirs." The battle of Ligny was fought June 16 between the French and the Prussians under Blucher; on the same day the French manfully engaged the English at Quartre Bras; June 18 the battle of Waterloo was fought, which ended by the timely arrival of Blucher on the battlefield in the total rout of the French.

It is claimed that Grouchy, who commanded the French right wing of 32,000, might either by engaging the Prussians, have prevented them from appearing in time on the battlefield and wresting the hard fought victory from Napoleon, or that he might have appeared on the battlefield himself in time to crush Wellington before Blucher could possibly have arrived.

Grouchy defends himself by saying that Napoleon was so elated over the victory at Ligny that he felt secure enough to go to Fleure and to bed, leaving Grouchy without any positive orders. He followed Napoleon to Fleure in order to call his attention to the critical state of affairs, but as he arrived early in the morning, and as Napoleon had given strict orders not to be disturbed, it was 1 o'clock in the afternoon before he was granted an audience.

And even when he did have his interview he found Napoleon arbitrary, and claims that he simply followed instructions, as did the gallant leader of the six hundred at Balaclava, recognizing that it meant disaster. If Marshal Grouchy tells the truth, and if every statement made by him in his memoirs is according to facts, then it must be admitted that his reasons for nonaction were sufficient to justify his conduct even in the absence of treasonable designs.

The appointment of Grouchy was an unfortunate one, for the marshal, though in many respects a great cavalry leader, had never before had the command of a body of mixed troops, and even his cavalry successes had been obtained when under the orders of a superior. But what was most unfortunate about the selection that Grouchy had not enough personal authority to enforce his orders on his corps commanders, and the fiery Vandamme not only despised but hated him because he had received the baton which he hoped was to have been his, while Girard, another general under him, was a personal enemy.

At 11 a. m. on the morning of the battle as Grouchy's columns were approaching Wavre, the marshal heard the commencement of the cannonading at Waterloo. Girard entreated him to march to the sound of the cannon, but Grouchy had what he considered distinct orders to pursue the Prussians. At 5 p. m. he received Napoleon's dispatch, hastily written at 1 p. m., ordering him to turn westward and crush the Prussian corps, but by them his main force was heavily engaged at Wavre, and even if he had been able to dispatch part of his force, it could not have arrived at Mont St. Jean till long after the end of the battle.

Naturally Napoleon, looking for any excuse, found at least one in the inactivity of Grouchy, and made accusations against him. It will never be known whether he was justified in so doing. At least Grouchy, by a skillful retreat, brought back his 32,000 men to Paris before the enemy arrived at the gates.

Grouchy's career ended with the abdication of the emperor, and had the humiliation of finding himself subordinate to Davout, an old enemy. Like many another of the marshals, the veteran retained his health and faculties for many years and defended his character and actions and criticised his enemies with the same clear logic which had so powerfully contributed to his early advancement. Grouchy died in 1847, and much has been written against him and in his defense for his actions at the famous Battle of Waterloo.

Character Cameos

By Robert V. Carr

Do you know anyone like this?

Type No. 111.—Girl. Age 4. Eyes, large and brown, with heavy dark lashes. Eyebrows, arched and delicately traced. Hair, brown and shot with golden lights. Nose, straight. Ears, classic. Rosebud mouth, with slight dimple at corner. Chin, strong and well-molded. Hands, babyish, but unusually active. Seldom breaks anything. Very thoughtful and considerate of others. Drags in all the stray cats and dogs in the neighborhood to be fed and cared for. Unselfish with playmates and will divide any of her possessions with them. Very affectionate in a demure and quiet way. Maternal instinct, strong. To her everything is "pretty." Once insisted that her mother come with her and see "pretty man." The motner, to humor the child, went with her to view a burly ruffian unloading coal. His face was black with coal dust, he wore a ragged leather apron and a greasy cap, but No. 111 called him a "pretty man." The child did not notice the man's garb; she saw only his rugged, homely, honest soul. Thus to her he was a "pretty man." Said he to the woman, "I got a little shaver jes' 'bout her age." He smiled, and the woman also glimpsed the soul of him. No. 111 is very sympathetic, lovable and intuitive. In the four years of her sweet life she has never been punished. Always has she known love and gentleness.

Comment.—Fortunate indeed for the world that No. 111 is blessed with a sturdy little body. Often such beautiful children are crushed by the cruel, adverse magnetism of earth, and pass on to what we hope is a better realm. But, possessing wise and loving parents, Little Miss Brown-eyes will become a beautiful wife and mother, radiating peace and happiness.

Own Your Farm.

(From The Cherokee Advance.)

The exodus from the farms in this country to the cities and towns has become a menace to our prosperity and safety as a nation. It is not only depopulating our rural communities of their best citizens, but it is also creating problems in our cities that are taxing the strength of our government and the brains of our wisest statesmen to handle. The cause for these conditions must be laid at the door of our educational system and politicians. For fifty years the farmer boys of our country have been taught that the object of their getting an education was to make merchants, lawyers, doctors, etc. The object of all education should be to prepare men and women for better achievements, and not to change their profession or calling. It should be the object of all education to make better farmers out of our present generation of farmer boys. Our politicians have been deaf to the calls of the wisest economists to do something to remedy this evil that has settled down over our country. Too busy with graft, or some other foolish pursuit, they have not heeded the call of better wisdom.

Sixty per cent of the farmers of the United States do not own the soil they till. Only 34 per cent of the farmers in Georgia own the lands they till. In Alabama and South Carolina only 37 per cent. Other southern states are in as bad plight. Farm ownership by those who do not cultivate the lands is becoming one of the gravest problems of the day. It was the problem that overthrew the imperial government of Rome two thousand years ago. Already the state of Mississippi has taken steps to regulate this kind of land ownership by statute.

Here is a problem for educators and legislators. Our boys be taught and educated in the right way—that education is to prepare them for better living and better farming instead of preparing them to go to the city to endure hardships consequent upon city life. Our legislators must turn their attention to the enactment of laws and the creation of institutions that will benefit the farmer. Business life should not be attractive to our farmer boys when over 90 per cent of those who go into business ultimately fail. The life of a real farmer is one of prosperity, enjoyment and independence. There is nothing hazardous about it. It is the bed-rock of all prosperity, and it stands men better in hand to stay upon the bed-rock of prosperity than to plant themselves upon the sands that crumble under their feet.

NEWARK.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

For modesty, Newark takes all the prizes among American cities. It is 250 years old and is the fourteenth city in size in the United States. Yet so quietly has it acquired its 347,000 inhabitants that if it were not for one of our largest and most vociferous insurance companies, its existence would hardly be suspected.

Newark is located nine miles west of New York city and has about as much chance to getting noticed as a Shetland pony beside an elephant. Newark has all the necessities of greatness, including a good newspaper, a $2,500,000 city hall, which looks like that amount, and a fine history. But it was not located carefully. The pious Puritans, who staked out Newark within sound of New York in 1666, were as foolish as the canary which tries to chirp in competition with a brass band. Had the pilgrims located Newark in Arizona it would be one of the wonders of the west, and tourists would flock to see it. As it is, however, 100,000,000 travelers pass through Newark on their way to New York each year, and most of them are bargaining with the bus and baggage men while the city rolls by.

Newark manufactures $125,000,000 worth of shoes, hats, carriages, beer and other comestibles each year, but this piece of information is always crowded out of the New York newspapers to make room for the news that another Broadway restaurant has increased the price of bread-and-butter.

Newark is connected with America by the Pennsylvania and Lackawanna and other railroads, and with Europe by the Passaic river and Newark bay. It is also connected by tunnel with New York and by insurance agents with every city in the country. Upwards of one million automobiles pass through the city on Broad street each year bound for the famous roadhouses of New Jersey, and the Newark citizen who does not tell the stranger that Broad and Market streets form the busiest street corner in Bargaining with the bus and baggage men.

America is violating a city ordinance.

Newark will have half a million people in 1920 and will be bigger than Cincinnati, Buffalo or Milwaukee, but unless New York will kindly consent to stop its racket for a minute this fact will pass unnoticed.

CLUB WOMEN URGE GIRLS' REFORMATORY

Miss Wooten Makes Principal Address on Library Day in Federation.

The unanimous indorsement of the federated club women of Atlanta was given yesterday at a meeting of the federation to the bill to be presented to the next general assembly of Georgia asking for an appropriation for the establishment of a state reformatory for girls, the indorsement of the meeting following a recommendation from the executive board that the federated women of the city co-operate with other agencies working for the passage of the bill. Mrs. Charles J. Haden presided.

Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, chairman of the housewives' league of the federation, was among the speakers of the afternoon who presented two important points as subjects for their consideration and action; that of the establishment of a central market, and that of the regulation of wage for household service. Subsequently she announced the forthcoming visit to Atlanta of Mrs. Julia Oakly Heath, president of the Housewives' League of America. Mrs. Imogene Oakly was another lecturer announced for March, both these ladies coming under the auspices of the city federation. An invitation to give the lectures in the Atlanta Woman's club was courteously extended by the president, Mrs. A. P. Coles.

The Program on Libraries.

Miss Katherine Wooten, librarian of the Carnegie library, made the principal address of the afternoon. It was library day in the federation—a day inaugurated by Mrs. E. G. McCabe during her regime as president. Miss Wooten's address was not only interesting and instructive, but historic in significance, as she brought out, among other facts, that the Carnegie library of Atlanta was the first free library established in the southern states. She recalled the first meeting for the purpose of promoting library interests as taking place seventeen years ago, when responding to the call of Miss Anne Wallace, then librarian in Atlanta's subscription library, a group of library enthusiasts came here during the Cotton States and International exposition and held a conference.

She told with many amusing incidents the launching of the project of the Carnegie library, objections brought forth by some, and the final establishment of the library and its splendid progress up to the present. She traced its influence in library work in the state; the establishment of the library association, the establishment of the library commission and the subsequent six free libraries now flourishing in Georgia. She paid high tribute to the library training school of Atlanta and its principal, Mrs. Percival Sneed, and mentioned the success of the graduates of the institution. There were nine graduated last year, and seventy applications made for trained librarians from the school.

Work of Branch Libraries.

Miss Wooten told with encouraging spirit the work of the Anne Wallace branch library and that in Oakland City. She believed that libraries should be established in the common schools, and one of the reference books in the courthouse. She referred to the fact that in progressive cities libraries are being established now in the plans where large numbers of people are employed, and her address was heightened in interest by the several touching human interest stories she told, illustrating what free libraries mean to some people.

A happy incident of the meeting was the gift to the federation through the treasurer of $100 to the student aid fund of the state federation, this accepted by the chairman, Mrs. H. B. Wey, and $64 to the scholarship fund of the Atlanta Conservatory of Music.

Seriously Injured by Fall.—Seriously injured by a fall into the crushing plant of the Dade City Marble works in Dade City yesterday afternoon, J. S. Fife, a marble cutter, was brought to Atlanta last night and carried to the Wesley Memorial hospital, where he is reported to be in a precarious condition. He was crushed and bruised, and is believed to have been injured internally.

The Washington Pattern in Sterling Silver

The wedding present of today is the heirloom of tomorrow, and in selecting a gift for the bride you always like to choose one that will not only be useful and reflect credit upon the good taste of the sender, but one that will also add an air of refinement to the home it is to grace.

We recommend the Washington pattern of Sterling silver hollowware and flatware for this purpose.

This design is representative of the Colonial style, and it is fitting that it should be named after one who was himself identified with all the nobler characteristics of our Colonial civilization.

This is the kind of silverware that instills the desire to possess, and any piece chosen from the beautiful display of flatware, platters, bowls, pitchers and tea sets shown in our window will always be used with pride by the recipient.

We shall be glad to have you call and inspect our stock.

MRS. WHITE GIVES $3,000 BOND, PREPARING TO FIGHT CHARGES

Several Allege They Advanced Handsome Kentucky Woman Money on Different Stories.

Mrs. Ella Harrison White, former Kentucky woman and sponsor for that state at the confederate reunion in New Orleans in 1903, who was arrested Wednesday night charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, declares that there is no basis for the sensational charges that she represented herself as sole heir to estates in Kentucky and Tennessee worth several millions and consisting of lands, diamonds and jewelry.

Dr. Oliver T. White, her husband, states that he borrowed about $1,000 from Dr. J. E. Turner, who swore out the accusation against Mrs. White, but that it was merely a loan and was used by him to tide things over until his wife's estate could be settled.

Mrs. White secured I. C. Clarke, a professional bondsman, and had him sign her $3,000 bond. Her husband's name also went on it. The woman herself is represented as being in a state of collapse at her apartments. She has employed Attorneys J. V. Poole and Thomas J. Lewis to defend her case and both she, her father, G. P. Harrison, and her husband are positive in their statements that all will be explained.

In the meantime it is stated that G. H. Brandon, of Barclay & Brandon, holds the woman's note for $800 and that Captain F. M. Myers, deputy clerk of the superior court, has loaned her money. Dr. Amos Fox says she secured about $1,400 from him by representing herself as an authoress and the daughter of a confederate veteran, friendless in Atlanta and without funds.

BLANCHE RING SCORES AGAIN IN TUNEFUL WALL STREET GIRL

As a general proposition a musical comedy star makes good one season in a vehicle and the following season, if the production gives any evidence of continuing to prove a drawing card, secures a much cheaper company and proceeds to "clean up" on the reputation of the previous season.

Miss Ring has not done this. Her company of this season may not be quite as expensive as that of the first year out, but she has not cheapened it to the extent that the production suffers.

Harry Gilfoil, who was one of the stars of last season's "Wall Street Girl," is no longer with her, but in Will Rogers, the vaudeville star who has been engaged for a special act, she has secured a feature that more than makes up for the loss of Gilfoil.

Miss Ring is the same joyous person that many of us have learned to love. She sings and acts and whistles with the self-same enthusiasm of other days, and appears to be having the time of her very life. That, in a large measure, is the secret of her success—the zest with which she enters into her work. Her good nature, her joyous smile, her light-heartedness are infectious. No matter how big a grouch you may have, she soon puts you in a good humor with yourself and the world in general.

Will Rogers, the Oklahoma cowboy who has been seen here in vaudeville, does a turn in the second act which is one of the hits of the production. What he can't do with a lariat is not worth attempting. His running fire of comment is extremely humorous.

William P. Carleton does a splendid a good voice and a splendid stage presence. Charles J. Winninger and Alice bit of work as Dexter Barton. He has Sullivan do some clever dancing.

You will make no mistake in seeing "The Wall Street Girl," even if you did see it last year. There will be two more night performances, with Saturday matinee.

SIDNEY ORMOND.

Dustin Farnum in "The Littlest Rebel."

(At the Atlanta.)

"The Littlest Rebel," in which A. H. Woods will present Dustin Farnum at the Atlanta Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, is little less than a sensation. Edward Peple's beautifully thrilling romance with its chivalric background of the civil war is said to hold the audience from curtain to curtain. The production is in four acts and each individual act necessitates the employment of sixty stage hands; new and startling electrical effects are introduced in dazzling fashion and the climatic finale of the third act enlists the services of 100 supernumeraries. Mr. Farnum's supporting company includes Zenaide Williams, Alexis B. Luce, Morris Burr, San Burton, Mary Miles Minter and others of note. Seats now on sale.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

A great variety of delighting acts make up the bill this week at the Grand. The sketches, comedy acts and novelty features blend perfectly, and there are other bits that contribute to the general entertainment. For next week the program will be topped by a new idea, "The Movies," a burlesque on the moving picture ideas, presented in three scenes and requiring an acting company of fourteen people, is the headliner.

"The Thief."

(At the Lyric.)

The unusual interest manifested in this week's attraction at the Lyric, Bernstein's famous play, "The Thief," has gained in strength as the week progresses. Few attractions that have visited the popular Carnegie way theater this season have been more universally praised. Miss Marion Sherwood and her associate players are giving excellent performances and it is not surprising that local theatergoers have found the attraction amongst the best of the season. The three remaining performances will doubtless draw good audiences.

"Don't Lie to Your Wife."

(At the Lyric.)

Dave Lewis is actually funny! Stage folks give him this distinction, so just imagine how this comedian must act now that he is supplied with such a rip-roaring scream as "Don't Lie to Your Wife."

The piece is up to the minute, scintillating with wit—full of odd and screamingly funny situations—in fact it might be called one long laugh in three acts.

The scenic equipment is new this season, all new costumes have been provided and the gowning of the principals is one of the distinctive features of this attraction. "Don't Lie to Your Wife" will be next week's Lyric attraction.

Tabloid Musical Comedy.

(At the Forsyth.)

"Merry Mary" is making the Forsyth merrier than it has been since tabloid musical comedy was introduced. It is a genuine farce musical comedy, with real comedians and pretty girls. Next week the attraction will be Raymond Paine, in "The Girl Question." Tabloid shows are presented at the Forsyth at 2:30 o'clock every afternoon and at night at 8 and 9:30 o'clock.

LOCOMOTIVE IS SEIZED BY A DEMENTED GIANT

Iron Mountain, Mich., February 20.—Alvin Olson, a demented giant, wrested control of a locomotive from a train crew here today, but after a terrific battle with the sheriff and deputies, he was torn from the throttle before he succeeded in running the engine on to the main line. A passenger train passed on the main track near the battle scene a few minutes after Olson was overpowered.

Olson boarded the locomotive at a switch near here. The train crew notified the sheriff.

He was severely hurt before he conquered the would-be engineer.

Two Trainmen Injured.

Seneca, S. C., February 20.—Two trainmen were seriously injured, and two cars and a quantity of baggage and mail burned as the result of a wreck here late last night between train No. 30, on the Southern railway, and a Blue Ridge passenger train. Both trains were running late, it is stated, and the wreck was due to a misunderstanding of crossing signals. The Blue Ridge train was knocked from the track and caught fire from kerosene lamps.

COMMITTEE'S REPORT WILL BE PUBLISHED

More Replies in Controversy Aroused by Criticism of the Construction Department.

The report of the chamber of commerce engineering committee will be printed in full, according to A. M. Schoen, chairman pro tem. of that committee. A meeting of the engineering committee was held yesterday afternoon and the recommendations of the executive committee were approved in reference to the Clayton controversy.

"Now that Captain Clayton has taken his protest to the public prints of his own motion, the committee thinks fairness demands that the engineering committee should be heard through the publication of its report, unless the engineering committee objects," said Walter G. Cooper, of the executive committee, and this has been approved by the engineering committee. In speaking of the controversy aroused, he said:

"Captain Clayton heard of the report and asked to see it. His request was granted. It was suggested that he might present his side to the committee, either verbally or in writing, before any action was taken. This was from a desire to be fair and to show proper courtesy to a public officer as well as a member of the chamber. Captain Clayton chose to publish his answer before sending it to the committee. Regardless of the merits of the report or of Captain Clayton's reply the committee thinks that a published reply to an unpublished document is essentially unfair."

W. A. Hansell, Jr., assistant chief of construction, made the following reply to the interview of Secretary Cooper Thursday night:

Hansell's Reply.

"I think that if there is any discourtesy it is on the part of the chamber of commerce in allowing the publication of an article stating that the engineering committee advised reforms in our department before the report had been acted on by the executive committee, who now, through Mr. Cooper, complain of Captain Clayton's discourtesy.

"In this matter it may not be amiss to state that before the municipal research expert, Mr. Sands, reached Atlanta I went to see Mr. F. J. Paxon, the chairman of the committee of the chamber of commerce for whom Mr. Sands made the investigation of conditions in our department, and assured Mr. Paxon of our desire to co-operate with any movement whose aim was the betterment of our service to the city. Mr. Paxon then stated that the investigation was really aimed at the betterment of municipal management in Atlanta and assured me that when Mr. Sands made his report it would first be submitted to us so that we could adopt his recommendations in regard to our department if we thought it advisable. If we did not agree with Mr. Sands the matter would be taken to council and council asked to instruct us to adopt the recommendations. If council would not do this, then the whole matter was to be put before the people in the public press and the people themselves could force the adoption of the recommendations—if they saw fit.

"Mr. Sands came, looked over the work under construction, was shown our office equipment, was introduced to the employees, was told of some changes we expected to make, went back to New York and made his report.

"Of course we did not hear from Mr. Sands as to his report, as he was here for the chamber of commerce and must report to them, but Mr. Paxon could have sent us a copy of the report so as to allow us to adopt such parts as we wished and Mr. Paxon was chairman of the committee and could have authorized Mr. Cooper to send us a copy of the report, if Mr. Cooper had wished to do so.

"Nor upon our failure to adopt these unknown recommendations made in this report did any member of the chamber of commerce appeal to council to force us to adopt them, but the first we knew of this report was in the public press.

"Was that courteous treatment from any of the chamber of commerce? Was that even fair treatment?"

CREEK WATER TESTED

Ashley to Learn if Factories Cause Odors.

Claude L. Ashley, chairman of council's sanitary committee, stated yesterday that he had turned over to bacteriologists two samples of water he took at Peachtree creek.

He has also asked the opinion of City Attorney James L. Mayson as to the powers of the city to force the three fertilizer plants at Armour, Ga., to abate a nuisance in the event it is proven that factory wastes poured into the creek are responsible for contamination of the water. Councilman Ashley does not believe that the odors which Peachtree road residents complain of are caused by sewage in the creek.

"My belief is that the odors are carried in the atmosphere," Councilman Ashley says. "I am also of the opinion that the fumes from the cotton oil mills contribute to the odors to no small extent."

CHAPLAIN IS REBUKED BY LIEUT. GOV. O'NEILL

Indianapolis, Ind., February 20.—Lieutenant Governor O'Neill caused a sensation in the senate today when he stopped Rev. E. R. Henry, of the Emmanuel Baptist church, of this city, who was making the opening prayer, and said:"

"Stop making a political speech."

The minister had prayed for the separation of the rum traffic from the state and for the day when Indiana "would refuse to sell to men the right to make other men drunkards, murderers, filling prisons and benevolent institutions."

The lieutenant governor pounded the marble slab with his gavel, and commanded the minister to stop. Then he ordered the journal to be read, and Rev. Mr. Henry immediately left the chamber.

Mrs. M. C. Barefield, Eufaula.

Eufaula, Ala., February 20.—(Special.)—After a critical illness from euraemic poisoning, Mrs. Minerva Courtney Barefield, aged 66 years, died Tuesday at the residence of her son, E. R. Barefield. She was born in Sumter county, Georgia, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Courtney, who moved to Eufaula shortly afterwards. She was married here in 1870 to the late G. W. Barefield. She is survived by three sons, E. C. Barefield, Q. C. Barefield and M. M. Barefield, of Birmingham. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the residence.

Dyspepsia Creates Queer Sensations

To Get Rid of that Bloated, Inflated Stomach Pressure Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets After Eating.

Ever meet that sad-eyed man who tells you the earth is tottering on its axis? He's a dyspeptic. If he is not too far removed from advice and argument induce him to use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for a few days. Watch the change. He will now appreciate a funny story; he will go so far as to admit that some cooks are better than others; he will even accept an invitation to a banquet.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain nothing but natural elements necessary to digestion, and when placed at work in the weak stomach and small intestines, supply what these organs need. They stimulate the gastric glands and gradually bring the digestive organs back to their normal condition.

There is no secret in the preparation of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They are the most popular of all remedies for indigestion, dyspepsia, water brash, insomnia, loss of appetite, melancholia, constipation, dysentery and other kindred diseases, originating from improper dissolution and assimilation of foods, because they are thoroughly reliable, and harmless to man or child.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are at once a safe and a powerful remedy, they will digest your food for you when your stomach can't.

$1,000,000 for Schools And Free Text Books Are Urged by Bryan

"A $1,000,000 bond issue for the Atlanta public schools is imperative if Atlanta wants to hold her own with the schools of the country," said Shepard Bryan, who urges many radical reforms in the administration of school affairs, following his resignation from the board of education.

"I look with a good deal of favor upon the suggestion that the new charter provide a commissioner of education for the city, with a board of three or five men to counsel with him. Under the circumstances the present board does all it can, and my relations with them have been extremely pleasant, but they are badly handicapped by lack of money."

A separate school tax, free school books, sufficient money for much-needed additions to equipment and new school houses are among the needs which Mr. Bryan stresses.

"My chief regret is that now I will not be able to emphasize the need of free text-books in an official capacity," he continued. "Eighty thousand dollars a year is spent on school books in Atlanta, and I think the charter ought to furnish the city authority to buy the books. Sentiment for free text-books is growing all over the south, and Atlanta will not long remain satisfied to have small towns like Fitzgerald do more for the schools than Atlanta will do."

Temperance Sunday.

March 9 is Temperance Sunday in the Sunday schools. It is requested by our state superintendent, Mrs. Dodge, of Tallapoosa, that all the Sunday schools observe this day in some special manner. Have songs, recitations, blackboard talks and illustrations. Pledge cards may be distributed for signers. Decorate the church with mottoes, flags and flowers. Make it a great and forceful day with the children—one they will remember.

St. John's Methodist Sunday school will have a special program in the afternoon of the 9th, to which other churches are cordially invited. Any further information concerning the program will be gladly given by calling Mrs. W. H. Preston, 60 East Georgia avenue. Phone 2893-L.

1 to 2—Class in folk dancing for young women.

3 to 4—Young women.

A delightful colonial party will be given Friday evening by the S. I. S. P. and Clover clubs. A very attractive program has been arranged of music and games. Also a prize will be given to both girls and boys for the best colonial costumes. So, it behooves each one "to look to their laurels." A cordial invitation is extended to the various societies of churches, the girls' young men friends and the friends of the association.

Shuford-Newell.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Shuford announce the marriage of their daughter, Laulie, to Dr. Charles Eugene Newell, on Wednesday afternoon, February 19, at their home on West Harris street.

George Washington Tea.

The Young Matrons' circle, No. 2, will give a George Washington tea at the Moore Memorial church this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Refreshments will be served and a musical program rendered. Every member of the church and their friends are cordially invited.

Mrs. Talcott at the Club.

The Atlanta Woman's club will present Mrs. Janet R. Talcott in "An Afternoon With James Whitcomb Riley," in song and story, Tuesday, February 25, at 3 p. m., at the Woman's clubhouse, 17 West Baker street. Admission 25 cents.

Valentine Party.

A pretty event of Friday evening was the valentine party given by Misses Maude and Elinor Duffee, at their country home, near Fairburn. Cupids and red hearts, with red carnations and ferns, decorated the attractive home. The ices and bonbons were also heart-shaped, carrying out the valentine idea. Many interesting games were played. Those invited were Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Pierpont, Misses Eula Duffee, Marie Duren, Gertrude Dodd and Messrs. K. P. Pierce, J. E. Medlock, Wyman Snow, J. M. Gill, Lucian Gober, G. C. Adams, Hubert Hunt, T. C. Boykin, B. W. Norton, Captan W. J. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Trammell entertained at a delightful Dutch supper last evening at their home on College park in compliment to Dr. C. H. McDonald, of Valdosta.

The guests were Miss Marjorie McDonald, of Valdosta; Miss Buford Matthews, Miss Harriett Trammell, Miss Dorothy Trammell, Mrs. Alfred Murrell Messrs. Carl Ward, Lester Harvey, Arthur Clark, Rogers Hughes, George Copple.

Washington Party.

Mrs. Archibald Davis entertained a merry party of little people yesterday for her young son, Knowles.

The table in the dining room was decorated with red carnations and with George Washington symbols, and flags, bunting, hatchets and miniature cherry trees were everywhere suggestive of the season.

At Ft. McPherson.

Captain and Mrs. Robert C. Davis entertained at afternoon tea yesterday at their home at Fort McPherson, the occasion assembling one hundred of their army friends.

Music and flowers were bright incidents of hospitality, carnations, jonquils and ferns decorating the reception and dining rooms. Mrs. J. T. Van Orsdale and Mrs. Horace Hobbs poured tea, and Mrs. George C. Saffarons and Mrs. B. F. Jones, Mrs. Oscar Strager, Mrs. Burnett and Mrs. Sederson also assisted in entertaining.

Birthday Centenary.

Mrs. John Evins leaves today for Westminster, Md., to assist in the celebration Sunday of the one hundredth birthday anniversary of her grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Newson.

Mrs. Newson's first visit to Georgia was in the days when Atlanta was Marthasville, and she came with her husband to spend several months with her first cousin, Mr. Henry Johnson's mother, both of whom were Dorseys. The trip was made from Maryland in a covered wagon drawn by mules, although Mrs. Newson, when she was a little girl, had seen the first railroad train ever built.

Mrs. Evins will visit Mrs. Frank Lester in New York before returning home.

Informal Luncheon.

Miss Cora Brown entertained at an informal luncheon yesterday in compliment to Mrs. H. S. Mitchell, of Norwalk, Ohio, who is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Edward T. Brown.

The centerpiece of the table was a pretty arrangement of narcissi, white carnations and ferns and all of the details of the pretty table were in white and green. Covers were laid for eight guests.

Lovett-McGahee.

The marriage of Miss Mary Eunice Lovett and Dr. Goree Leo McGahee took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Lovett, on Merritts avenue at 5:30 o'clock in the presence of relatives and intimate friends.

The house was artistically decorated with palms and ferns and quantities of jonquils. There were no attendants and the ceremony was performed by the bride's father. The bride wore a becoming gown of blue cloth with hat to match and carried bride roses and valley lilies.

An informal reception followed the ceremony. The bride's mother was gowned in taupe colored charmeuse satin.

Dr. McGahee and his bride left for a wedding journey and on their return will go to housekeeping on Euclid avenue, Druid Hills.

Trenor-Ramsauer.

Miss Mary Trenor and Mr. Shepherd Ramsauer were married Wednesday by Rev. Dunbar H. Ogden.

Mrs. Ramsauer as Miss Trenor was a very popular young lady of Ormewood Park. Mrs. Ramsauer is interested with the Yancey Hardware company.

They are now keeping house on Luckie street and will later move into their bungalow in Ormewood Park.

Booth-Dillin.

The wedding of Miss Ela Olivia Booth and Mr. Harry Waltman Dillin took place yesterday at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary A. Booth, on Euclid avenue. Rev. R. O. Cryder, of Philadelphia, a life-long friend of the groom, officiated.

On account of a recent bereavement in the bride's family only relatives were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillin left for a trip to Panama, Cuba and Florida, and on their return they will reside at 178 St. Charles avenue.

Mrs. Callaway's Luncheon.

A beautiful entertainment yesterday was the buffet luncheon at which Mrs. Eugene Callaway was hostess. Miss Jennie D. Harris, Miss Sara Rawson and Miss Eula Johnson were guests of honor, and a large company of young married women were assembled.

The reception rooms had artistic decoration in palms and the spring flowers, and confections were served from an elegantly appointed table in the dining room. The centerpiece was a showering arrangement of pink roses, out of the center of which rose Easter lillies and white Roman hyacinths formed a plateau at the base. Silver dishes were filled with creamed strawberries and pink and white crystallized pears, and silver candlesticks burned unshaded candles.

Mrs. Callaway wore a charming toilette of blue and white chiffon cloth over pink charmeuse, the corsage embroidered in cut steel. Miss Sara Rawson wore blue charmeuse satin trimmed with silver lace and skunk, and the girdle was the purple of her velvet hat. Miss Harris wore old rose and shadow lace, with a black tulle hat trimmed with gardenias. Miss Johnson was gowned in blue charmeuse and gold embroidery.

Eastern Star Social.

A delightful evening has been planned by Electa chapter, No. 6, Order Eastern Star, for Friday February 21, at 8 o'clock, in the Masonic temple. After a short business meeting a program of interest has been planned. Mrs. White, a charming reader, will give several selections. Miss Lucretia Abbott will give a selection entitled "When Pa and Ma Joined the Star." Delicious refreshments will be served in the banquet hall. All members of sister chapters are cordially invited.

Colonial Tea.

The Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., will entertain at a colonial tea Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at the chapter house on Piedmont avenue.

There will be an interesting musical program. Mrs. Carroll Latimer will pour tea and will be assisted by a number of young girls in colonial costumes.

CALLEN-COLE.

Eufaula, Ala., February 20.—(Special.)—Miss Lillie Callen and Mr. C. E. Cole sprang a surprise on their friends Tuesday night by being married at the Baptist pastorium by Rev. J. A. French. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. W. Callen.

MIZE-THAMES.

Climax, Ga., February 20.—(Special.) At the home of the bride, at 8 o'clock tonight, the marriage of Miss Mamie Mize to Mr. Frank Thames was solemnized, Rev. Leland Moore, of the Methodist church, officiating. The bride is the eldest daughter of Colonel Robert Mize, a prominent real estate owner, as well as a large manufacturer of lumber. The bride is a beautiful young woman, gifted and popular. The groom is a high type of business man, being a trusted official of the Atlantic Coast Line railway. He has other business connections of importance in Decatur county.

BARRETT IS URGED FOR CABINET PLACE BY GOVERNOR BROWN

Commending highly the record of Charles S. Barrett, president of the Farmers' union, Governor Joseph M. Brown forwarded yesterday a letter to Woodrow Wilson, urging the appointment of the Georgian to the position of secretary of agriculture.

Governor Brown's action was taken without consultation with Mr. Barrett and reflected his own personal belief in the capabilities of the Farmers' union head to fill the cabinet position. Governor Brown has made few recommendations to the president-elect, which makes his indorsement of Mr. Barrett the more forceful.

Throughout the west and the middle west the movement in behalf of Charles S. Barrett has been gaining strong support, hundreds of letters pouring in upon the president-elect, and petitions from thirty-four of the forty-eight states in the union being presented so far. The movement has been supported more largely outside Georgia than within the borders of Mr. Barrett's own state. Although the report comes from Washington that the Georgia congressmen have been lukewarm in indorsement of the movement, it is understood that practically every one of them has committed himself to the support of the Georgia man. Mr. Barrett has been out of the state lately and has had nothing to say about his boom, but there are a large number of friends in Georgia, as well as elsewhere, working actively in his behalf.

STATES ARE FALLING INTO SUFFRAGE COLUMN

Jefferson City, Mo., February 20.—The Missouri house of representatives today sent to engrossment the constitutional amendment granting suffrage to women. The senate already has sent the amendment to engrossment.

Des Moines, Iowa, February 20.—The lower house of the Iowa legislature today passed a resolution providing for submission to voters of an equal suffrage amendment to the Iowa constitution.

The galleries were crowded with suffragists.

LAST BIBB PRIMARY DECLARED ILLEGAL

Defense in Election Fraud Case Uses Point at Trial of T. E. Artope.

Macon, Ga., February 20.—(Special.) Did Bibb county have a democratic executive committee in 1912 when the state primary was held last August and was there a legal primary held in this county?

The defense in the case of T. E. Artope, an election manager, placed on trial today on the charge of altering and destroying ballots cast in the primary last August at the courthouse box known as "A to L," contends that the county did not legally have an executive committee and that, therefore, the managers and clerks were not legally named and therefore none of the rules governing the primary could have been violated as long as there were no rules to violate.

The springing of this point by the defense was a distinct surprise to the large crowd present at the trial of the case against Artope, one of four alleged managers and clerks indicted by the grand jury. It came out during the examination of P. H. Gambrell, the alleged chairman of the alleged county executive committee.

Two Committees Named.

The contention is based on some past history in Bibb county politics which occurred during the year 1910, when the democrats of the county split into two factions and named two executive committees. A call was issued for a mass meeting to name a new executive committee in 1910 and the meeting was held in the superior courtroom. A disagreement arose and one faction withdrew and went to the city courtroom and named an executive committee with George S. Jones as chairman. Those remaining in the superior courtroom named P. H. Gambrell chairman.

Later, through agreement, the two committees of sixteen members each were consolidated into a single committee of thirty-two members with P. H. Gambrell as chairman.

When Mr. Gambrell was asked on the stand today if he was chairman of the executive committee Attorney Dupont Guerry, for the defense, raised the point that the action of consolidating the two committees was illegal, the party law being that there shall be one committee of sixteen members.

"Artope Not Amenable."

He claimed that to have a legal primary and make Artope, the defendant in the present case, amenable to justice, there must first be a legal executive committee.

The court will be asked to dismiss the case against Artope when the state has finished the introduction of its testimony.

Only three witnesses were examined this afternoon, they being P. H. Gambrell, Bryan Davis, secretary of the county executive committee, and Charles H. Hall, Jr., a member of the executive committee and also of the subcommittee of five which had charge of the primary election in August.

A large number of witnesses have been summoned and it will take all day tomorrow to complete the case.

ALDERMAN WILLIAMS DIES AT HOME IN MACON

Macon, Ga., February 20.—(Special.) W. W. Williams, for a number of years an alderman and a successful jewelry merchant of Macon, died at his home here today, following an illness of about one year.

Mr. Williams served as alderman under Mayors Bridges Smith and John T. Moore, and in the present city administration was chairman of the police committee and a member of the finance committee. Born at Holton, 8 miles from Macon, sixty-four years ago, Mr. Williams, while still a boy, moved with his family to Newton, where he and his brother, the late J. H. Williams, engaged in the mercantile business. In 1887 he moved to Macon, and since that time had been engaged in the jewelry business.

He leaves three children by his first wife, they being Mrs. James T. Holt and Mrs. C. B Willingham, of Macon, and Mrs. W. J. Fleming, of Cincinnati. Four sons and one daughter by his second wife survive. They are J. Berrien, W. W., Jr., Harper and Edward Williams, and Miss Katharine Williams, all of Macon.

Two Nurses Graduate.

Milledgeville, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—The graduating exercises of Allen's Invalid Home Training School for Nurses was held yesterday afternoon at the institution, near this city. An address was delivered by Rev. Elam F. Dempsey. The graduates are Misses Irene Jeptha Haley and Eva Hood.

HE SEES HIS BRIDE FOR THE FIRST TIME BEFORE THE ALTAR

Athens, Ga., February 20.—(Special.) Having never seen the young woman he selected to be his wife till e went to her home this evening with the preacher to have the marriage ceremony performed, Charles Rhodes, a young decorator of Ambler, Ohio, tonight married Miss Minnie Fortune at her home on Mitchell street, Rev. William Saye performing the ceremony in the presence of the young lady's parents and a few other friends.

Mr. Rhodes advertised for a wife. Miss Fortune answered. Correspondence extended over several weeks, with the result that the wedding occurred tonight.

TIPPING TO BE BANNED BY THE QUAKER STATE

Harrisburg, Pa., February 20.—A bill making it a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of from $10 to $25, for any person to give, solicit or receive, directly or indirectly, a tip was introduced in the Pennsylvania legislature today. The preamble recites that "the iniquitous custom of tipping has grown to enormous proportions in this country, and has long since become an intolerable burden to those who travel."

WOMAN GIVEN $22,200 FOR LOSS OF FINGER

Seattle, Wash., February 20.—A jury today awarded $22,200 to Mrs. Anna L. Valentine, of Chicago, because the door of a Northern Pacific car was slammed on her little finger, compelling amputation at the middle joint.

ROW OVER CORDELE COP

Woman's Charges Against Him Start Uproar in Council.

Cordele, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—A most confused and sensational state of affairs developed in the meeting of the city council last night, when T. N. Turk, of the Cordele police force, was brought to trial, charged with conduct unbecoming an officer. Mayor Harder suspended Turk several days ago when Mrs. Leon Gunter alleged that he insulted her at her home and her husband swore out a warrant charging him with assault and battery, which case is now in the superior court.

Of such uproarous nature was a demonstration of fifty business men summoned as character witnesses in behalf of the accused officer that the council, widely divided in opinion, was forced to call an executive session.

Though Turk with his counsel appeared, Mr. and Mrs. Gunter, summoned as witnesses against him, refused to comply on the grounds that they did not bring the case before the council. This left the case without prosecution, but with the friends of the officer on the council demanding a hearing for him. For more than two hours the wrangle continued, while a motion to reinstate the officer stood at a tie vote. It was near midnight when one of the councilmen reconsidered his vote and gave a majority to a motion to postpone the case until today.

Though again summoned as witnesses for this trial, Mr. and Mrs. Gunter failed to appear, resulting in the charge being withdrawn by the mayor and the officer reinstated with salary for the time he was under suspension.

To Make Memorial Address.

Milledgeville, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—Professor William E. Reynolds has accepted an invitation of the Mary Ann Williams chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, of Sandersville, to deliver the memorial address in that city, April 29.

BARNESVILLE CHAMBER ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Barnesville, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—The Barnesville Chamber of Commerce at its meeting this week elected officers for another year and instructed the board of directors to map out a plan of work and make such changes in the constitution and by-laws as were deemed necessary. The election of a secretary who will be in charge of the office was referred to the directors, who will undertake to secure the man for the place.

The following are the officers elected: W. H. Mitchell, president; W. H. Hahr, vice president; E. Langford, treasurer. The following compose the board of directors: C. O. Summers, T. W. Cochran, R. A. Stafford, R. L. Webb, B. M. Turner, W. B. Smith, D. L. Anderson, W. M. Howard and C H. Humphrey.

During the past two years the organization has been very helpful to the city and has been instrumental in securing a number of important enterprises and improvements.

DRIZZLE AND BLOW IS PREDICTION FOR TODAY

Weather conditions are still unsettled, according to the local office of the United States weather bureau, and today is due to be cooler, with probably another drizzling rain off and on during the forenoon.

By Saturday morning the mercury will be about 40 degrees above zero, and Saturday and Sunday are due to be cool. However, there will be no cold weather, according to all indications.

Unsettled conditions exist all over the country, with an atmospheric disturbance in the southwest, from whence comes most of the climatic conditions in this section, and the disturbance out there indicates similar conditions here within a day or so.

COULDN'T RAISE HEAD OR HAND

And Had Lost All Hope of Recovery. Now Runs Sewing Machine.

Scottsville, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place Miss Jennie Meador writes as follows: "I was in an awful condition, caused from womanly trouble. Was confined to my bed, and couldn't raise my head or hand. In fact, I had lost all hope of ever getting well.

I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I can now work in the garden, run a sewing machine, have gained 15 pounds, and am as happy as can be.

You may publish this letter if you wish. I wish all ladies, suffering from womanly trouble, would give Cardui a trial, as I am sure it would help them."

Cardui is a pure vegetable extract, that has no severe medicinal action but acts mildly and gently, as a medicine should act, and therefore can have no bad after effects.

You can rely on Cardui to help you, just as it has helped so many thousands of other women in the past half century. It goes to the seat of the trouble and builds up womanly strength where it is most needed.

It is always wise to have a bottle of Cardui on hand, ready for use. Get a bottle today, so that you can take a dose or two whenever you feel you need it. At your drug store.

Give the Kiddies Lots of Sweets

That old notion of sweets disagreeing with children is all wrong. The best and biggest physicians say, "Eat sweets, your body needs them." They say that when your palate craves candy, satisfy the desire, because some hungry tissue requires it—but you ought to make the candy you give the kiddies yourself, and you ought to make it with

VELVA

Divinity Fudge

Part 1.—3-4 cup Red Velva Syrup, 1 oz. chocolate, 1-2 cup water, 3 cups sugar, 1 teaspoonful almond extract.

Part 2.—1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup water, whites of 3 eggs, 1 cup chopped nut meats, 1 teaspoonful vanilla extract.

Boil part one until a little hardens in cold water. Boil part two (without egg whites, nuts and extract) until it forms a soft ball when tried in cold water; remove from stove, pour gradually into stiffly beaten whites of eggs, beating all the time. Then beat it into part one. Now beat the mixture for 20 minutes, add nuts and vanilla extract and pour into buttered tins or plates. Cool and cut in squares. The chocolate may be omitted.

in the red can, because it's the very best syrup for candy-making that your money can buy. It gives a real tang to candy that you can't get with any other syrup—and the very first can of Velva you use will prove that what we say about it is so. It's just fine for cakes, too, and other baking. Yes, buy Velva in the clean, sanitary can. Buy it often and give the kiddies sweets. You can get Velva in the green cans, too, at your grocer's if you prefer it.

Send for the book of Velva Recipes. No charge.

NO MIGRATORY BIRDS; COLD WEATHER COMING

Milledgeville, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—Numbers of observant citizens here have noticed the absence during this month of February of the migratory birds, such as the robin and the Chinese bird. Those who are good weather prophets say that the delayed coming of these birds means that some extremely cold weather is yet to be had. These birds usually make their appearance in this section from two to three weeks earlier than the present time. This town is filled with large sugarberry trees that line the sidewalks, and during the month of February the robins flock to these trees to eat this berry.

W. C. WARDLAW TALKS ON STOCKS AND BONDS

Stocks and bonds formed the subject of an interesting discussion last night by W. C. Wardlaw, of the Robinson-Humphrey-Wardlaw company, before the Atlanta chapter of the American Institute of Banking, which met in the chamber of commerce rooms.

Besides the discussion the meeting was full of interest to the bankers in other ways and fifteen new members were enrolled. The present officers of the chapter are: T. W. Townsend, president; O. F. Whitten, vice president; E. H. Bee, treasurer, and J. H. Lockhart, secretary.

WASHINGTON THE MODEL CITY, VERDICT OF PRESIDENT TAFT

Washington, February 20.—There is less graft, there is less scandal, police protection is better and nature appears more beautiful in Washington than in any city in this country, President Taft declared tonight in his farewell speech to the business and professional men of the capital.

"I have been here for the last nine years continuously," said the president. "I believe I have been in such positions as to know if graft or undue gain at the expense of the public were rife, or had any substantial existence. I do not mean to say that every man in Washington in business or in banking is as pure and as disinterested as a saint, but I do mean to say that, as cities go, there is no city in the country where there is less graft, where there is less food for scandal, where there is less manipulation for the private exploitation of individuals at the expense of the public than in Washington.

"I don't know any better policed city than the city of Washington; I don't know any city where the Sunday laws and the liquor laws are better observed than they are here."

The president approved the proposed memorial bridge connecting Washington with Virginia and declared that the District of Columbia should get back from the old dominion the territory across the Potomac originally contained in that district but ceded back to Virginia years ago.

"I would very much like to direct a law suit to test the question whether the retrocession of half the District of Columbia to Virginia was within the power of congress" said the president with a smile.

"Ireland Selling Jails, Others Building Them," Says Rev. R. C. Phillips

"While other countries are building jails, Ireland is selling her prisons and turning them into factories," said Rev. Randall C. Phillips, field secretary of the Irish Methodist conference.

The two great Irish temperance movements are held chiefly responsible for the recent sale of 120 jails, according to Dr. Phillips, whose description of the temperance crusade has aroused interest throughout the south. The Young leaguers, or Roman Catholics, wear pledges of abstinence for life and in northern Ireland the "catch my pal" temperance crusade has enlisted thousands in its ranks.

"The only serious shadow on Ireland's future is the loss of her young life, streaming out in greater numbers now than ever," says Mr. Phillips. Within the last ten years 1,500,000 Irish immigrants have come to the United States and more than 40,000 now are coming here annually.

In emphasizing Ireland's improvement, Dr. Phillips calls special attention to the more liberal land purchase laws and the university education which stresses scientific, technical and agricultural training.

"Home rule at best will be an experiment," he says, "for even under the present system Ireland can't raise enough revenue for her government; and with the rapidly declining population the problem of self-government will not be made any easier."

Dr. Phillips will speak next Wednesday evening in the Wesley Memorial church on "Social, Religious and Political Ireland" and next Sunday he will speak in the Park Street Methodist Episcopal church.

THOMASVILLE TO GET NEW RAILROAD STATION

Thomasville, Ga., February 19.—(Special.)—That Thomasville will have a new depot within the next eighteen months is the statement authorized by the general manager of the Atlantic Coast Line company through Traveling Passenger Agent Green of this city.

The plans for the new depot are being drawn and as soon as completed will be submitted to the mayor and board of trade for their approval. The depot will be built on the east side of the railroad opposite the present station, thus doing away with the trouble and risk in crossing the railroad tracks in reaching the station from the business section of town.

The depot will be a modern, up-to-date structure and one fully adequate to the needs of the traveling public.

The work being done on the present depot is only temporary in its nature so as to render it more comfortable to the traveling public while the new one is being constructed.

SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED TO SAVE CHILD'S LIFE

Savannah Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—Out of pity for the prisoner's family, who are in destitute circumstances, Judge Emory Speer in the United States court today passed an order suspending the sentence of Charles Palmer, who is in jail at Albany for running an illicit distillery.

It came to the judge's notice that the mind of Palmer's wife is seriously deranged, and that the neighbors fear she may take the life of a small child in the house. Palmer is also the only support the family has, and Judge Speer felt it would be unjust to keep the man in jail when his people needed his assistance.

L. & N. IS ORDERED TO MAKE 2 1-2 CENT RATE

Montgomery, Ala., February 20—The state railroad commission has ordered the Louisville and Nashville railroad to establish a 2½ cent passenger rate on its lines between all points in Alabama on March 6. This decision was reached by the commission after an exhaustive hearing of the case, which occupied more than six months.

The order of the commission was served on George W. Jones, general counsel for the railroad, Wednesday night by Samuel P. Kennedy, secretary of the state railroad commission.

School Bonds for Alamo.

Vidalia, Ga., February 20.—(Special.) At a recent meeting of the city council of the town of Alamo a $10,000 bond election was ordered, the proceeds of the issue to be used in the construction of a modern school building. No opposition to the issue has developed and it is almost a certainty that the school building will be erected.

The county commissioners of Wheeler county, of which Alamo is the county seat, recently awarded the contract for the drawing of plans for a $30,000 courthouse. L. P. Crutchfield, well-known Savannah architect, was given the commission to get up the plans.

She Fought Husband Who Wished to Lead Suffragette Parade

Mrs. Susan Sieg, 118½ Powell street, a staunch opponent of anything pertaining to woman suffrage, was arraigned in recorder's court yesterday afternoon because she had fought her husband, John Sieg, when he offered as an explanation for his belated arrival at midnight, the announcement that he had been practicing with the drum corps that was to lead the Atlanta suffragettes in the inaugural parade.

She pleaded guilty and was fined $5.75. Her husband entered the same plea and received a similar fine. Mr. Sieg had been staying away from home until the wee small hours with provoking regularity of late, his wife stated in court, and said he had been practicing with the drum corps that would lead the Atlanta suffragettes in the inaugural parade in Washington.

Mrs. Sieg, according to her husband, exhibited her dislike to anything relative to woman's suffrage in a violent display of pugilism, in which Mr. Sieg sustained severe punishment, and his wife did not escape without a battered lip and discolored optic.

POLICE SAY COHEN HAS MANIA FOR OVERCOATS

B. Cohen, a young molder living at 300 East Fair street whom detectives allege is a kleptomaniac who has stolen more than 100 overcoats during the winter season, was arrested by Chief Beavers and Policeman Florence yesterday afternoon as he emerged from the Empire building, clad in a lady's fur cloak under a handsome chinchilla man's coat.

He was taken to headquarters and locked up under a charge of suspicion. Detectives Stares and Campbell, who have been investigating numerous recent thefts of overcoats and cloaks from downtown office buildings, declare that Cohen has stolen fully as many as 100 coats this winter.

Cohen denies the charges, but will say nothing regarding the coat and cloak he was wearing at the time of arrest. He has been caught and tried on burglary charges a number of times during the past several months.

DECATUR TO HAVE GAS IN THE NEAR FUTURE

Petition for charter of the DeKalb County Civic Service company, which will give Decatur their long-wanted gas system, was filed in DeKalb superior court Tuesday, the incorporators being T. Wilson Battin and A. L. Osgood, of Philadelphia, and Neal G. Goss, of Decatur, the attorney representing eastern capitalists and engineers in the application.

A franchise will be asked as soon as the charter is granted and the ultimate development of the company looks to supplying the many thriving towns of DeKalb county with lights and fuel.

A public meeting to hear expressions on the gas question has been called to meet in the courthouse Tuesday night by the board of trade. Sentiment is unanimous concerning the need of gas, but divided as to whether there should be a private company or municipal plant. The Atlanta Gas Light company has offered to ask for a franchise if promised enough consumers.

GETS LIFE SENTENCE FOR KILLING BROTHER

Savannah, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—For the murder of his half-brother, Shad Bond, Robert Mumford was tried, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment in the Chatham county superior court in one day.

The tragedy took place on the schooner Queen Clipper, while the brothers were floating down the river near Beaulieu on January 29. Mumford's plea was self-defense.

PAST MASTER'S JEWEL PRESENTED TO J. K. ORR

Columbus, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—At a meeting of Mount Hermon lodge, No. 304, F. & A. M., held in the Masonic temple in this city tonight, a past master' jewel was bestowed upon J. K. Orr, of Atlanta, who is a charter member of the lodge, having joined when the lodge was organized in 1878.

Mr. Orr moved to Atlanta about twenty years ago, but still retains his membership in the lodge, and is deeply interested in anything pertaining to its welfare.

PROMOTED BY THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY

J. S. Bloodworth, city passenger and ticket agent of the Southern railway at Savannah, has been transferred and promoted to the position of traveling passenger agent with headquarters at Macon, to succeed the late C. A. Carson, Jr., the appointment to be effective February 21, according to announcement made Thursday by John Lamar Meek, assistant general passenger agent. George G. Walker, formerly with the general passenger office at Washington and more recently of the office force of Assistant General Passenger Agent W. E. McGee at Columbia, S. C., has been promoted to succeed Mr. Bloodworth, these promotions being in accordance with the Southern railway's policy of filling all vacancies by promoting employees already in its service.

CORN PRIZES OFFERED BY CONGRESSMAN LEE

Dalton, Ga., February 20.—(Special.) Congressman Gordon Lee will again gives to the Boys' Corn club fund in the seventh district, having notified County School Superintendent Sapp to that effect. He will give to each of the thirteen county corn clubs $25.

In addition to the contribution of Mr. Lee, other donations received during the past few days have pushed the fund up to $137, the largest amount the club has ever had for prizes, despite the fact that the club has not perfected an organization for this year's work.

FIGHT OVER TERMINALS

Tennessee May Condemn W. & A. Property in Chattanooga.

According to disparches received in Atlanta yesterday, the Tennessee legislature will visit Chattanooga in a body on March 21 for the purpose of inspecting the terminals of the Western and Atlantic railroad, with a view to authorizing the state to condemn the land and purchase it for street purposes.

In the Tennessee legislature which is now in session, a bill is pending which gives the city of Chattanooga the right to condemn central property which is needed for opening streets, and it is understood that this bill is aimed directly at the terminal property of the Western and Atlantic. This railroad is owned by the state of Georgia and leased to the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad.

Options have been secured on other property in Chattanooga in the past which were proposed for new location of the Western and Atlantic terminals, but the options were allowed to expire, since the state of Georgia did not see its way clear at the time to appropriate the $69,000 necessary, and because the land was also declared to be in danger of overflows from the Tennessee river.

Lecture on Nigeria.—Dressed in the costume of a native African, Dr. John S. Derr will deliver an illustrated lecture on North Nigeria, at the North Avenue Presbyterian church, tonight at 8 o'clock. The program will be under the auspices of the Men's league, in the Sunday school auditorium.

FUSS IN MONTGOMERY OVER FREE FERRIES

Vidalia, Ga., February 20.—(Special.) The Montgomery county commissioners and the grand jury are at outs over the free ferries on the Oconee river. The commissioners have decided that, since the new county of Wheeler cuts off all territory west of the river, it is not up to Montgomery to maintain the free ferries and has ordered them discontinued and the boats, cables and appurtenances sold.

The grand jury feels that it would be discourteous to the new county, which is having more or less expense at this time building a county courthouse and with other organization indebtedness, to discontinue the ferries, and recommends that they be maintained for a period of at least six months.

NABBED AT DOVE SHOOT

Twelve Americus Men Arrested by Game Warden.

Americus, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—Twelve prominent Americus citizens received an unexpected jolt this morning when they went to shoot doves in a baited field. Game Warden McMath was apprised by telephone of the slaughter and appearing upon the scene served personally each sportsman with a state warrant for violating the game laws.

This first arrest of prominent people created considerable interest. All were released upon $100 bond each.

FRIED FISH

Fry Trout, Perch, Herring and other small pan fish whole. Cut large fish in 1 inch thick slices, 2 or 3 inches square. Remove skin and bones from sliced fish, wipe dry, roll in bread crumbs or fine meal, then in beaten eggs, then in crumbs, and fry in deep Cottolene hot enough to brown a bit of bread while you count sixty. Drain well before serving, or simply cover with seasoned meal and brown on each side in hot Cottolene in frying pan.

ATLANTA MOGULS OFF TO MEETING

Leave This Afternoon for Chattanooga—Fight Expected on Schedule.

Manager Billy Smith, President Frank E. Callaway and Directors Charles Nunnally and Gus Ryan, accompanied by the newspaper scribes, will leave here this afternoon for Chattanooga to attend the spring meeting of the Southern league, which is scheduled for that city on Saturday.

The local moguls will lead a strenuous fight on two points. They will oppose the adoption of the present proposed schedule for reasons already stated and will fight against the adoption of the rule requiring the clubs to cut down to the player and salary limit by opening day.

The scribes will attend the meeting for the purpose of being present at the organization of the Baseball Writers' association that will be formed at this meeting, the main purpose of which will be to cement good fellowship among the scribes and to rectify some of the scoring mistakes in the rules.

The scribes and moguls will be the guests of Manager Elberfeld, of the Chattanooga team, at his country home on Walden's Ridge Saturday afternoon.

Explained.

Whitney-Thomas Battle At the Orpheum Tonight Will Be Wild Cat Bout

While betting waxed keen over the fight to be staged tonight, Whitney and Thomas last night underwent the prescribed examination calmly and confidently. The following measurements by Dr. Louis C. Roughlin show the two men to be perfectly fit for the fray:

Whitney.		Thomas.
26	Age	20
5 feet 7¼ in.	Height	5 feet 5 in.
133	Weight	133
14	Neck	15¼
35½	Chest (normal)	34
37	Chest (expanded)	36
11	Biceps	10½
10½	Forearm (right)	10½
10	Forearm (left)	10¼
6½	Wrist	6½
69	Reach	65¼
30	Waist	29½
19½	Thigh	19
13	Calf	11
8½	Ankle	9½

Tonight's Card.

Frank Whitney v. Joe Thomas—10 rounds.

Kid Young v. Spider Britt—8 rounds.

Kid Superior v. Kid Brown—4 rounds. A battle royal.

The above is the select card of boxing that Henry Norton, promoter of the Dixie Athletic club, offers to the boxing fans of Atlanta at the opening of his new club rooms in the Orpheum theater tonight.

No better balanced card with any more action could be carried into an evening's entertainment that Promoter Norton has brought together in this one.

The main bouf has them all talking. Frank Whitney, of course, is the favorite with the majority of the local fans, who do not believe that there is a lightweight alive that can take Whitney's measure. If Thomas proves that he is the man, then they are willing to take off their hats to him, but until he does, they will still consider Whitney invincible.

This Thomas comes here with the reputation of being one of the best lightweights in the game today and as he has yet to celebrate his twentieth birthday, a great future is expected of him.

Thomas has defeated some of the best lightweights in the business in his short ring career, which has not been quite two years in length. But two decisions have gone against him in that time. He lost to Frankie Russell, whom Whitney defeated here, but in a return engagement, beat him a mile. In his other loss, Jack Britton barely outpointed him.

In twenty-two battles, nineteen have been victories and one a draw decision. The names of Willie Beecher, Joe Sherman, Pal Brown, Jake Abel, Frankie Russell and boys of that caliber appear in his list of victories.

Both Whitney and Thomas are in fine fettle. It is said that both are the same style of boxers, fast on their feet, scientific, with a good left jab and a fast straight right.

It has been said of Whitney, by such a boxing critic as Tommy Walsh, and by others, too, that Whitney can beat anyone that will come to him. In this style of fighting Whitney is as good as any man in the game. We have never seen him back away from any of them, no matter how fast they came.

But Whitney can carry the battling to a man, if it is necessary. He has proven this and with that fine straight left that he has and that wonderful defense, it takes a champion to send him back.

It will be interesting to watch what kind of tactics Thomas will adopt tonight. If he carries the fight to Whitney, he will be a sadder, but wiser youth. If he stands away and makes Whitney come to him, there may be a different tale, but Whitney's supporters say that he can go in as fast as he can stop them coming into him.

Whitney and Thomas have a further incentive for a victory. An engagement with Battling Nelson, which would draw the largest house ever turned out here, is practically promised the winner.

The Kid Young-Spider Britt semi-wind up promises so much action and is such a grudge battle that to speak of it at length is useless. Britt is in fine fettle for this mill and Young, although he knocked Britt out in their last meeting, is going to have to extend himself to the limit.

Kid Superior has a hard battle in the opening preliminary when he meets Kid Brown, a lad imported here from Butte, Montana. It is said that this Brown is a "ringer." But Superior cares not. "Send any of them my weight," he says. "I'll tackle them."

A battle royal will open the card at 8:30 o'clock.

MOBILE-BIRMINGHAM GAME IS IMPORTANT

The basketball game between the Mobile Young Men's Christian association and the Birmingham Athletic club on Saturday night at Mobile is an important one.

Mobile is now tied with the Columbus Young Men's Christian association team for the basketball championship of the south. Mobile also has a 1-point victory over Birmingham to her credit, winning the game in Birmingham.

Columbus defeated Birmingham twice on each court. If Mobile pulls the same stunt, the Columbus and Mobile teams will still have their tie to play off. The game may be staged in some neutral city.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE PREPARES FOR SEASON

The Atlanta Sunday School baseball league held its first meeting last night at the College Co-op. The following teams were represented: First Baptist, College Park Baptist, Central Congregational, Capital View and Jackson Hill. According to President Russel Forbes great interest was manifested. All Sunday schools interested are urged to attend the next league meeting Thursday night at the same place.

MERCER PLAYS TECH AT CRYSTAL PALACE

Old Rivals Meet on Basketball Floor—Jackets in Auburn Saturday.

Mercer and Tech, old time athletic rivals, will meet on the basketball floor at the Crystal Palace at Tech tonight, in the first meeting between basketball teams of these institutions.

Superior experience in the game and in view of their fine showing against the Atlanta Athletic club last Saturday night makes the Mercer bunch the favorites to win. But the game is sure to be fiercely fought.

On Saturday night, the Jackets will go to Auburn for a return engagement with the Donahueites, Auburn winning the game played here recently.

WORLD'S CHAMPION

M. M. ROLLESTON.

When M. M. Rolleston, of the Atlanta National bank, returned to the city yesterday from Birmingham he brought with him new laurels. He had just won a championship adding-machine contest from W. V. Bartlett at a meeting of the Birmingham chapter of the American institute of banking Tuesday night.

After listing 250 checks in 3 minutes and 21 seconds in the contest, which broke the former world's amateur record of 3:38½, Mr. Rolleston then did the remarkable "stunt" of breaking his own record immediately afterward, listing 250 checks in official time of 3 minutes 12½ seconds.

"Rolley," as the champion is known to his Atlanta friends, bears his honors coolly. He did not seek the contest with the Birmingham gentleman. Mr. Bartlett challenged him and he accepted and proceeded to show what "Atlanta-made" goods are like. It is probable that Mr. Rolleston will now have other challenges issued to him. The officials at the contest were N. W. Stearns, assistant cashier of the Traders' National bank of Birmingham, and Frank Stephens, assistant cashier of the Birmingham Trust and Savings bank.

VANDERBILT STARS GIVEN GOOD OFFERS

Wilson Collins and Lewis Hardage, stars of the Vanderbilt football and baseball teams, have been offered splendid inducements to turn professional baseball players, but it is understood that they have turned them down.

Hardage will enter the insurance business in the summer at Meridian, Miss., and believes that his prospects are better in the insurance field than in baseball. The Washington Americans, St. Louis Nationals, Atlanta and Nashville have offered Hardage flattering inducements.

The Philadelphia Americans and the Washington Americans have been hot after Collins.

ATHLETIC CLUB TO WIND UP SEASON SATURDAY NIGHT

The Atlanta Athletic club's 1912-1913 basketball season will come to a close Saturday night. The Columbus Young Men's Christian association five will be their opponents.

The season of the club team has been a successful one and it can be made the most successful season in the history of the organization if the locals win the game Saturday night. If this happens, every game of the season on the home floor will be a victory, the two road games alone being defeats.

Columbus defeated Atlanta in Columbus the early part of the season, winning by a wide margin and the locals intend to play their best article of ball trying to reverse the count.

Columbus has lost but one game this season, being defeated by Mobile in Mobile, but as they defeated Mobile in Columbus, the teams are tied. Wednesday night, Columbus walked away with Birmingham in Birmingham, defeating them 40 to 15, the second defeat the Georgia aggregation handed Birmingham this season.

WALSH WILL MANAGE LIGHTWEIGHT MANDOT

Joe Mandot, foremost lightweight in the south, will be managed by Tommy Walsh and is now training for a possible fight on March 10 in New Orleans with Leach Cross, according to dispatches received last night from the Crescent City.

The deal by which Walsh, a New Orleans promoter, is to manage the Louisiana boy, has been hanging fire for some time and was only consummated Thursday. Walsh plans to have Mandot fight the winner of the Murphy-Wolgast fight within a month. Mandot may also meet Rivers in New York later.

TOUCHARD AGAIN WINS INDOOR TENNIS TITLE

New York, February 20.—Gustave F. Touchard today won the fourteenth holding of the national indoor lawn tennis championship singles. He defeated George C. Shafer 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4. By his victory Touchard again holds the championship title which he won in 1910.

A Cracker a Day for Fans

18---Lew McAllister

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the eighteenth of a series of daily articles introducing the prospective 1913 Crackers to Atlanta fandom.)

Lew W. McAllister is being counted on by Manager Billy Smith to handle the bulk of the receiving of the 1913 Crackers.

McAllister will be the veteran of the team. His experience, covering a period of years of play as regular as any man now in the game, will make him a valuable asset behind the plate.

As a coach and handler of young twirlers, McAllister is said to be as good as any receiver in the game today, and with him behind the plate, the local mogul is confident that all the game's inside workings from the pivotal point of catcher will be well taken care of.

Such a fine judge of a ball player as George Stallings touts McAllister as "the man who will shine behind the bat in the Southern league this season."

McAllister is not a yankee, as nine out of every ten Atlanta fans would think. He was born in Austin, Miss.—when? He does not say. In the blank mailed to him by the sporting editor he leaves this answer blank.

McAllister claims Detroit as his home, having lived there for years. He is 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 186 pounds.

Just how long McAllister has been in professional baseball is not known. He admits nine years of service, seven at Buffalo, one at Newark and one at Toronto. But he does not mention his service in the majors with Cleveland, Detroit and other clubs. Fifteen years' service would nearer approach it.

McAllister caught sixty-eight games last season and hit .253. He fielded .967, making but eleven errors. Not so bad for a veteran. He should do even better in the warm weather down here.

MINISTERS AT FIGHT LOOKING FOR EVIDENCE

St. Joseph, Mo., February 20.—A committee of pastors of local churches will attend a prize fight here tomorrow night to obtain information to lay before the grand jury. When the ministerial alliance applied to the authorities to prevent the match they were told the contest, as advertised, would be within the law and that no action could be taken preceding the fight.

A Challenge.

Horace Roberts, fighting under the name of Coronation Kid, issues a challenge to met the winner of the Spider Britt-Kid Young bout at the Orpheum tonight. Charlie Vittur is the boy's manager.

COMMERCE CHAMBER FORMED AT MADISON

Madison, Ga., February 20.—Special.) A chamber of commerce was formed here tonight at a banquet at the New Morgan hotel. There were 125 men at the table. Mayor R. W. Parker was toastmaster.

Speeches were made by Hon. C. D. McKinney, of the Decatur board of trade, and Hon. E. H. Hyman, secretary of the Macon chamber of commerce. Over $2,000 was raised and more is promised tomorrow. An office will be opened at once and a competent secretary employed to take charge of the work. Every citizen in Madison is a live wire from this date on.

WAHOO HAS SIGNED; REPORTS MARCH 1

Charlie Wahoo met Judge Hamilton McWhorter yesterday and went through the mere formality of signing a contract, binding him to the University of Georgia for one year.

The entire matter was cut and dried until the meeting and the signign finally closed the deal.

Mr. Wahoo will be assistant to Head Coach Cunningham, business manager and purchasing agent and will assume his duties March 1.

Cunningham and Wahoo should be a formidable duo at the university.

ATHENS WOMAN'S BRUSH PAINTED COBB PORTRAIT

Miss Lucy Stanton, of Athens, Ga., was the artist whose brush painted the portrait of Howell Cobb which was received at the state capitol a few days ago. At the time it was uncertain where the picture came from or who painted it, and it was reported to have been the work of a Washington artist.

According to the congressional resolution which authorized the painting of every former speaker of the house, Miss Stanton sent the portrait to Washington when completed, and from there it was expressed to the Georgia state capitol. It will hang on the wall in the governor's reception hall.

Miss Stanton is widely known for her portrait work and her miniatures.

520 PEOPLE AT BAZAR OF GATE CITY GUARDS

At the bazar of the Gate City Guards, which is being held to raise funds for the Washington trip, the most successful night of the entire event so far was experienced last night. There were 520 people at the bazar during the evening, and a splendid time was enjoyed.

Friday night will be "press night," and on next Monday night the biggest event of all will take place—the "queen of beauty" contest, at which time the "daughter of the Guards" will be chosen, who will sponsor the company in Washington.

RED AND BLACK WINS OVER WAKE FOREST

Last Game of Season Ended 70 to 27—Was Fast and Snappy.

By Clark Howell, Jr.

Athens, Ga., February 20.—(Special.) The Red and Black basketball team defeated the Wake Forest five here tonight by the score of 70 to 27 in the last game of the season on the local court.

The Wake Forest quintet displayed by far the best form of any team seen here this season, and the game was fast and snappy throughout, and replete with sensational shots and difficult passing.

The Georgians demonstrated the efficacy of team work by scoring consistently on such combinations as "Carter to Peacock to Brand." The individual stars of the contest were Captain Johnston, of the locals, and W. Holding, of the North Carolinians. Johnston scored 26 points, while Holding made 17.

Although the result was never in doubt after the first few moments of play, the visitors exhibited unusual determination and showed their familiarity with the fine points of the game.

Line-Up.

GEORGIA (70)		WAKE FOREST (27)
Peacock (10)	Forward	W. Holding (17)
Brand (20)	Center	B. Holding (8)
Johnston (26)	Forward	Hall (2)
Carter (12)	Guard	Utley (0)
Liddell (2)	Guard	Davis (0)

Summary—Cuthrall, substituted for Hall, fouls shot by Johnson 2 out of 5, by W. Holding 4 out of 9.

"Blackmailing Scheme" Falbaum Calls Petition Against Tire Company

Declaring that a "blackmailing scheme" had been put forward to run him out of business, R. H. Falbaum, president of the Interstate Tire and Rubber company, now in the hands of a receiver, declared yesterday that his firm was organized for the purpose of manufacturing tires in Atlanta, and would start work as early as possible.

In the meantime, attorneys for the petitioners declare that United States secret service agents are investigating the company, which is said to have solicited subscribers to its capital stock all through the south.

Falbaum is president of the company, his wife is vice president, and L. R. Strauss is secretary. Falbaum declares Strauss is in Florida, while Thomas B. Felder, counsel for the petitioners, is quoted as saying that Strauss has sailed for Europe.

A detailed hearing of the matter will be undertaken later by the superior court, and in the meantime the concern's affairs are in charge of F. Roland Alston, court receiver.

MEXICAN MINE OWNER PREDICTS MORE WAR

"There is more trouble ahead in Mexico," said A. H. Malaney, after reading the latest war dispatches. For sixteen years Mr. Malaney has lived in Mexico, supervising the operation of his mining interests there. Owing to the changed conditions, Mr. Malaney is obliged to return to Mexico earlier than he had expected, and he leaves Atlanta tonight.

"I anticipate a general uprising in northern Mexico, if Huerta remains in control," he said. "The most hated man in the north, next to Madero, is Huerta, because he fought Diaz so hard at Bachimba and Geminez," he continued. "Besides, Orozco is boss of the north, and he may have the presidential bee himself."

Christened by Miss Kettell.

Boston, February 20.—Miss Mary Sigsbee Kettell, a daughter of Commander S. E. W. Kettell and granddaughter of Rear Admiral Sigsbee, christened the new ammunition tender No. 23 when the craft was launched at the Charleston navy yard today. The tender will be used in transferring ammunition between the navy yard and the new naval magazine at Hingham.

BIG TRAINING SCHOOL MEMORIAL TO BOOTH

Salvation Army Raising $500,000 for This, One-fifth From This District.

A half-million dollars is to be raised for a Salvation Army training school as a memorial to General Booth, according to the announcement of Colonel R. E. Holz, provincial commander of the south Atlantic division of the Salvation Army, who is here with leading officers for the Salvation Army congress now in session. Colonel Holz has received assurances that the southern division plans to guarantee at least one-fifth of that sum.

"We need a large training college for social, field, evangelistic, mission and women's rescue workers, and I am glad to report that $120,000 has already been raised in the campaign we have just begun," he said.

Salvation Army delegates from all over the south are here to celebrate the thirty-fourth anniversary of the founding of the army in the United States. Big rallies will be held in Christian churches all over the city. The anniversary rally, open to the public, will take place Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Cable hall on North Broad street.

Colonel William Peart, of New York, second commanding officer in the United States, arrives in Atlanta today and will open temporary headquarters at the Aragon. Colonel R. E. Holz, of Philadelphia, provincial commander of the south Atlantic dvision; Major White, of Buffalo, and Major Escott, of Baltimore, arrived Thursday to take part in the officers' council. Major Crawford, of Atlanta, is the divisional officer in charge. About 125 officials arrived Thursday.

Tonight there will be the annual officers' and soldiers' banquet, Colonel William Peart presiding.

PREACHER IS ACQUITTED OF BANKER'S CHARGES

Memphis, Tenn., February 20.—Rev. R. H. Mahon, delegated by Bishop H. C. Morrison, of the Methodist church, to investigate assertions of L. T. Ward, former cashier of the Bank of Collierville, Tenn., who was convicted of embezzling $38,000, of the bank's funds, has submitted his report to the bishop. Ward, who was formerly a minister, testified that he either invested the money he admitted embezzling in enterprises in which Rev. W. E. Thompson, of Tampa, Fla., was interested or loaned the money to Dr. Thompson.

Mr. Mahon in his report exonerates Dr. Thompson and declares that his information shows Dr. Thompson knew nothing of the methods pursued by Ward and, while he had some financial dealings with Ward, Dr. Thompson regarded them as legitimate transactions, made with the knowledge of the directors of the bank. Part of this indebtedness was repaid by the transfer of stock in a lime and cement company located at Chattanooga and Mr. Mahon declares that the total amount due by Dr. Thompson now is $1,600 on a note which has not matured and which is amply secured.

The investigation was instituted at the request of Mr. Thompson. Mr. Mahon expresses the opinion that extravagant habits was responsible for Ward's difficulties.

"CUSSING" BY PHONE NO BASIS FOR DAMAGES

Des Moines, Iowa, February 20.—Profane and harsh words—"cuss words" in fact—when heard over the telephone are not a basis for legal damage action in Iowa. This decision of the Iowa supreme court was handed down today in a case in which Nettie Kramer, of Franklin county, sued Henry Ricksmeir for damages on account of "fright, shock and humiliation."

The trouble arose over the trespassing of some of Miss Kramer's cattle, Ricksmeir delivering his opinion of the incident into the plaintiff's ears over a telephone wire.

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed bids will be received at the office of St. Matthews Savings Bank, St. Matthews, S. C., until noon of Tuesday, March 18, 1913, for the construction of the Calhoun County Courthouse and Jail buildings to be erected at St. Matthews, S. C.

Each bid must be accompanied with a certified check for the amount of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), payable to J. S. Wannamaker, Chairman of Courthouse Commission, as a guarantee that if awarded the contract, the successful bidder will promptly enter into contract and furnish surety bond as required by the specifications.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES DAY BY DAY

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

Application for the building permit for the new Christian Science church, at Peachtree and Fifteenth streets, was made yesterday. The application calls for a building to cost approximately $116,000, and according to the plans and specifications submitted it will rank among America's classical structures.

The site of the building was purchased some time ago from E. Woodruff for a consideration of $16,000. The lot is 90x100.

Plan Big Boulevard.

The construction of another fine boulevard through the northern suburbs of Atlanta, consisting of an extension of Moreland avenue from its present terminus at St. Charles avenue to Peachtree road at the Brookhaven club, now seems probable. The drive is to be 100 feet wide.

A meeting of owners of property lying along the route of the proposed highway was held in the office of B. M. Grant & Co., on the second floor of the Grant building. It is the plan, as outlined at the meeting, of those immediately interested in the extension of Moreland avenue to donate the land necessary for the right-of-way and bear a part of the expense of construction. Since the route of the new boulevard will lie along the line between Fulton and DeKalb counties, both counties will be asked to help build the road, and it is understood that the promoters have already assurances to the effect that this assistance will be forthcoming.

The survey of the road has been made by O. F. Kaufman and brother.

The proposed highway will connect the Brookhaven club neighborhood and the new Oglethorpe university with Druid Hills, East Lake, Decatur and adjacent territory.

Among those interested in the project are: W. Woods White, V. H. Kriegshaber, Nat Kaiser, B. Mifflin Hood, W. E. Handcock, the Joe Hirsch estate, C. E. Caverly, the Frank Davis estate, Will V. Zimmer, Morris Brandon and W. E. Worley.

Real Estate Sales.

The M. C. Kiser agency has sold for J. F. Askew to B. F. and J. G. Bell a tract on Lee street, south of Gordon, with railroad frontage, for an aggregate consideration of $52,443, and has resold for the purchasers to W. W. Boyd, Jr., a one-third interest in the property for $18,000. The property lies on the east side of Lee street, 1,496 feet south of Gordon, where it has a frontage of 366 feet, with a depth of 291 feet to the Central of Georgia railroad. The property is improved with several buildings.

A. M. Rucker, of Cheatham Bros. agency, has sold for Mrs. Kate O. Vandiviere, of Savannah, to the Rauzin Investment company No. 301 Capitol avenue, a two-story, ten-room house, on a lot 50x200, for $4,900.

The Ralph O. Cochran agency has made a sale of 234 acres in north Fulton county for a consideration of $17,000. The name of the purchaser and exact location are withheld for the time being. It is understood however, that the property will be subdivided and placed on the market this spring.

This company has also made the following small sales: 45 Atlanta avenue, a six-room cottage, located between Washington and Crew streets for $1,500 cash. This property belonged to Mrs. Mary A. Adkinson and the name of the purchaser is withheld; 346 Chestnut street, a three-room house on a lot 23x100, for $400 cash. This property was owned by C. T. Jarvis and sold to O. D. Stevens; 64 and 66 North Humphries street, located close to Peters street, a double negro house, owned by Joseph Buchman and sold to Mrs. S. M. Dean for $1,300.

The Brotherton & Callahan agency, of East Point, announces that it has sold an aggregate of $12,500 worth of vacant business lots on East Point's great white way, which this agency opened.

Office Building on Market Soon.

Following the announcement some time ago that the Empire Life Insurance company will remove to Augusta, necessitating the sale of the company's present building, at the junction of Peachtree and North Broad streets, it was announced yesterday that the company has purchased a site in Augusta for its quarters there at a consideration of $100,000, and that the Empire Life building will be placed on the realty market in Atlanta some time in the near future. The exact location of the Augusta property was not announced.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

COTTON WAS HIGHER AT CLOSE OF SESSION

Covering for Over the Holiday Caused Advance—Market Irregular During Day.

New York, February 20.—The cotton market was very nervous and irregular today, but closed steady on covering for over the holiday, with last prices showing a net advance of from 1 to 4 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 1 point on March, but generally 1 to 3 points higher, and sold 4 to 7 points above the closing figures of last night during the early trading. This was in response to somewhat better Liverpool cables than expected, and steady overnight spot advices from the south. There was foreign buying, as well as covering by shorts, but there was no aggressive support and the bearish average of local sentiment, as evidenced by the talk around the ring, soon found a reflection in increased offerings. Prices weakened in consequence, and during the early afternoon active months sold about 3 to 9 points net lower, following rumors of a less favorable turn in the southern spot markets.

This break carried prices into new low ground for the movement, with May contracts selling at 11.84, or about 27 points under the high level of Wednesday morning. Covering became more active around these figures and the market rallied rather sharply from the lowest during the last hour. Liverpool attributed the relatively steady showing of the market there to a better trade demand, but some unfavorable advices were received from the continent.

A private cable from Bremen said that the German spinning trade was depressed and declining and there was also a cable from Augsburg which stated that spinners were out of the market, with yarns and cloths quiet. Early afternoon advices from New Orleans and two or three points in the eastern belt, including Savannah, claimed that spots were offering a little more freely. One of these reports said that 2,000 bales were offered at Huntsville, Ala., at the market price. The foreign buying here was believed to be chiefly in the way of straddles, and it was reported that some of the leading old crop longs were switching into the new crop months.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, February 20.—Spot cotton steady, 1-16 off; middling, 12¾; sales on the spot, 1,920 bales; to arrive, 645; low ordinary, 9; nominal; ordinary, 9 13-16, nominal; good ordinary, 11 7-16; strict good ordinary, 11 11-16; low middling, 11 15-16; strict low middling, 12 3-16; middling, 12⅝; strict middling, 12 9-16; good middling, 12¾; strict good middling, 12 15-16; middling fair, 13⅜, nominal; middling fair to fair, 13⅝, nominal; fair, 14¼, nominal; receipts, 2,963; stock, 118,908.

The cotton futures market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points on somewhat higher Liverpool market than expected and bullish private dispatches by cable. Wet weather over a large portion of the belt, and promise of more to come, also stimulated buying. With the market showing a tendency to advance, shorts increased their offerings but they were well received and at the end of the first half hour of business, the trading months were 7 to 8 points over yesterday's close.

On the rise, selling orders increased and finally a general selling wave developed. But for the profit-taking of sellers of the early part of the week, the market would have had next to no support. Commission houses received good buying orders from realizing shorts, with the old crop months nearing the 12c level and the market was checked, with the May option standing at 12.04. At the lowest, the trading months were 11 to 6 points under yesterday's close. Much bearish gossip concerning new crop preparations was circulated during the morning.

At noon, the market was quiet, but steady, with prices unchanged to 2 points down, compared with the last quotations of yesterday.

Selling pressure was increased after the noon hour and in the trading up to 2 o'clock the trading months went 3 to 10 points under yesterday's final figures, the new crops showing the least decline.

Cotton futures closed steady at a net advance of 4 to 7 points.

Dry Goods.

New York, February 20.—The cotton goods markets are steady with trading of moderate volume. Jobbers are doing an active business in wash fabrics. Yarns are being offered more freely by spinners.

Liverpool Cotton.

Liverpool, February 20.—Cotton spot in fair demand, prices easier; American middling fair, 7.30; good middling, 6.96; middling, 6.74; low middling, 6.56; good ordinary, 6.22; ordinary, 6.88. Sales 10,000 bales, including 1,000 for speculation and export and 9,700 American. Receipts, 4,000 bales, including 3,900 American. Futures opened easier and closed barely steady.

New Orleans, 2,200 to 2,500 against 12,644 last year.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, February 20.—Cables this morning were about as due and our decline of yesterday, although with larger spot sales at 10,000 bales, the same heavy pressure from northern operators, which have been a feature of the market recently, carried prices some 9 or 10 points below yesterday's closing, from which there was quite a rapid recovery just before the close, the trade are slow buyers below 12 cents and there appeared to be a considerable demand for March contracts against call sales on the basis of 12 cents.

It was this demand, together with buying from Europe which steadily absorbed the fall months on the decline, which took up the sales made here by local and notrehrn operators who feel that, irrespective of conditions in the cotton trade itself, the outside situation is such as to bring about still lower prices. This feeling is widespread, it reaches a portion of the cotton trade itself and it has resulted in a pessimistic feeling as to prices. Today's market, however, in the face of this feeling, showed considerable inherent strength.

WOMEN BOUGHT STOCK AND MORTGAGED FARM

New Intervention and Several Bills of Objections Further Tangles Cosmopolitan Suit.

With an entirely new intervention and several bills of objections in the Cosmopolitan Life Insurance company tangle, the hearing of the case was postponed until February 27. Mrs. Fannie D. Ramsey and Mrs. H. S. Sanford, of Leesburg, Ga., intervened yesterday, claiming that they had been deceived into purchasing stock in the concern, and had given notes on their 465-acre farm in Lee county.

The committee, of which M. M. Riley is chairman, recommended that the Armistead settlement, by which Joel F. Armistead, promoter, was to get $15,000 in cash and $10,000 in notes to withdraw from the concern, should be allowed by the court. Sidney J. Stubbs, through Attorney Burton Smith, entered a formal protest to a settlement with Armistead.

Another objection to the present status of affairs was when a group of stockholders represented by H. H. Dean and Fermor Barrett filed a protest against any counsel fees being paid out of the concern's assets.

Fraud Charged by Women.

The women who intervened presented a lengthy statement. They claimed to have been induced to purchase $10,000 worth of capital stock. Then they claim they were urged by Armistead and his agents, Cecil Deane and P. H. Orr, to buy fifteen shares of stock in addition, and that they were fooled into giving a note for $15,000 worth of stock.

In the petition the two women also stated that many extravagant things had been told them about the company by agents, and that Armistead had corroborated them.

SNEED LOST REASON WHEN HE SAW BOYCE

Physicians Testify Texan Was Crazy When He Killed His Wife's Lover.

Vernon, Texas, February 20.—Two physicians, Dr. D. C. Darnell and Dr. J. E. Dodson, both of Vernon, testified today that in their opinion J. B. Sneed was not capable of judging between right and wrong when he killed Albert B. Boyce, Jr., at Amarillo last September; that he was not capable of criminal intent at the time, and that when he saw Boyce, his reason was dethroned. The physicians were called as witnesses for the defense at the trial of Sneed, charged with murder.

Dr. Darnell supplemented his original statement with the assertion that Sneed probably would have killed all the Boyces if he had seen them at the moment he killed Al Boyce, the condition of his mind being such that he was incapable of reflection or reasoning, and was governed entirely by his subconscious mind.

Dr. Darnell said that Sneed, just before the killing, was suffering from melancholia, produced by fear, and when he caught sight of Al Boyce his reason quickly left him and he became irresponsible.

The cross-examination of the defendant was resumed this morning. He identified for the state two letters—one from a telegraph operator at Houston, to Sneed—divulging the contents of a message purporting to have been from Albert Boyce, which the operator had heard going over the wire bidding a Mrs. Perkins, of Louisiana, to come to Dallas to prevent Sneed from again locking up his wife. The other was from Mrs. Perkins to Mrs. Sneed, in which she invited the latter to visit Lake Charles. Sneed was asked whether his wife, after eloping to Canada with Boyce, had returned to Texas on account of charges filed against Boyce in Fort Worth. Sneed replied:

"No, sir. She came back because I told her I had come there for her."

BRIDEGROOM MUST PAY FOR DEFENDING BRIDE

Newark, N. J., February 20.—A jury in the circuit court today awarded Hugh Porter, a member of the "Skimmerton" party which in July, 1911, serenaded Walter J. Force and his bride at their home in Livingston, near here, $3,000 for injuries received when Force fired both barrels of a shotgun into the crowd.

Force was indicted for the shooting after spending some time in jail, while Porter and Walter Levenguth, who also was shot, were recovering. A number of the "Simmerton" party today testified for Porter, while several residents of Livingston corroborated the story told by Force taht his bride was nearly in a state of collapse through fright before he fired the shots, as the crowd, it was feared, would break into the house.

LABOR UNIONS SAVED FROM ANTI-TRUST LAW

House Forbids Their Prosecution—Organizations of Farmers Protected.

Washington, February 20.—Prohibition of prosecution of labor unions and farmers' organizations under the Sherman anti-trust law by the department of justice was written into the sundry civil appropriation bill tonight by the house.

By a vote of 30 to 22 an amendment offered by Representative Hamill, of New Jersey, was adopted providing that no part of an appropriation of $300,000 authorized for the enforcement of the anti-trust law should be expended to prosecute any voluntary organization of working men. A similar amendment applying to farmers' co-operative organizations, offered by Representative Roddenbery, of Georgia, was adopted.

Minority Leader Mann during the discussion of the bill took a fling at the attitude of Representative Hamill and other democrats toward the incoming democratic administration.

"We have sought for a long time for some indication of the opinion of the president-elect on administrative and legislative politics," said Mr. Mann. "Many members on the other side of the house have visited Mr. Wilson and have come back with little available information. Evidently those closest to the president-elect distrust him. Here is the gentleman from New Jersey who has undoubtedly for years been closely associated with the incoming president, who now has a grave fear that the attorney general to be appointed by him will misconstrue the law."

"HONEST BUSINESS" HAS NOTHING TO FEAR

Governor Wilson Says in Explaining the Seven Anti-Trust Laws of New Jersey.

Trenton, N. J., February 20.—"Honest business and honest men have nothing to fear." This was the assurance which President-elect Wilson gave today in a lengthy statement explaining the enactment into law of the seven anti-trust bills which he signed yesterday.

"Those who would engage in the heartless practices of ruining rivals and filching from the pockets of the people more than they ought reasonably to demand," said the governor, "are the only ones who will have cause to regret the enactment of these measures. I predict that under them the people of New Jersey will enter upon a new era of prosperity. I congratulate the legislature and the people on their passage. These laws mark a new era in our business life."

"Senate bill number 43, the act defining trusts and designed to promote free competition and commerce in all classes of business," continued the governor, "makes it criminal to make an agreement which directly or indirectly precludes a free and unrestricted competition. It was urged upon the legislature that the bill be amended by adding the word 'knowingly' so that it would read that any person or persons who wilfully and knowingly makes an agreement in restraint of trade should be punished. I understand that it is a general principle of law that there must be a guilty mind to constitute a guilty act. It seems to be that this affords ample protection to any honest man.

"It has been said in some quarters that these laws will help big business and hurt the small dealers. That is, of course, not the intention and it cannot be the effect. The salutary provision of the act defining trusts is that it makes it unlawful to make any agreement directly or indirectly which will preclude free and unrestricted competition in business. Monopolies have too often accomplished by indirection what they could not do directly. The holding company is an example of this."

The governor's statement denies charges made during the public hearings that the act would prevent a company which may lawfully loan money from taking a bond or mortgage to secure a payment. With reference to the charge that banks would be prevented by the new legislation from discounting the promissory notes of corporations, the governor pointed out that banks were not competing corporations and did not therefore come within the provisions of the act.

BALKED IN LAND DEAL HE SHOOTS TWO MEN

Dallas, Texas, February 20.—James L. White, treasurer of the Republic Trust company, of Dallas, was shot and killed late today in the Wilson building here.

A. Silvers, vice president of the Republic Trust company, and president of A. Silvers & Co., with offices adjoining Mr. White, was shot in the stomach and arm.

Following the shooting, J. A. Clopton, said to be a resident of San Antonio, was taken to the office of Chief of Detectives Henry Tanner.

Clopton is held on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of White and is also charged with assault to kill for shooting Silvers.

The men disagreed, it is said, as to the advisability of financing a real estate deal in San Antonio, engineered by Clopton.

OFFICER IS INDICTED FOR COLLECTING GRAFT

New York, February 20.—Another police officer, Sergeant Peter J. Duffy, was indicted today by the extraordinary grand jury that is investigating police graft. Duffy was confidential man and alleged collector for former Police Inspector Sweeney, who is also under indictment. He is charged with bribery.

Duffy's indictment was based on evidence that "collections" from disorderly resorts in Sweeney's inspection district amounted to $250,000 a year.

District Attorney Whitman said this afternoon that he expected to receive important information from a woman known as the "queen of the vice trust," a keeper of a syndicate of disorderly houses for the last thirty years. This woman is said to have preserved the stubs of checks she paid to representatives of the graft "system" for protection.

Warehouse Burns.

Jacksonville, Fla., February 20.—Fire tonight destroyed the immense warehouse of the Florida Cotton Oil company, west of the city, and all of its contents, including a quantity of refined oil and many tons of cotton seed. It is believed the total loss will exceed $50,000, covered by insurance.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED TO M'CASKEY CONCERN

Sensational Allegations Against Register Company by Government.

Cleveland, Ohio, February 20.—Sensational charges of violations of the Sherman anti-trust law are leveled at the McCaskey Register company in a civil suit filed here today by order of Attorney General Wickersham.

To acquire a monopoly of the interstate and foreign commerce in the sale of account registers, appliances and systems for keeping credit accounts, the company, its officers and agents, it is charged, wrongfully and fraudulently have obstructed and suppressed the business of competitors, bribed their employees, employed agents to spy upon their business, have waged an unfair campaign of patent suits and threatened suits and of other unlawful methods to stifle competition.

The federal district court here was asked to restrain the following named defendants from further monopoly and to prohibit a series of alleged unlawful and unfair practices:

The McCaskey Register company; Alfred G. Ryley, Stewart S. Kurtz, Samuel G. Zimmerman, Edward A. Langenbach and Austin Lynch, of Canton, Ohio; George P. Hayes, Memphis, Tenn.; Leslie G. Solar, Atlanta, Ga.; Henry F. Pollock, Theodore C. Uran, George C. Russell, William G. Farnum, Milton G. Bejoch and Grant Kiser, of Alliance, Ohio; Josiah W. Phippe, Boston; Charles T. Baxter, New York; David C. Bower, Pittsburg; Harry M. Rowley, Chicago; William P. Hughes, San Francisco; John S. Jones, Kansas City, Mo.; Fred Schneider, Seattle, and Edward T. Bingham, Washington, D. C.

Defendants are charged with having maintained a display room known as the "graveyard," or bonefire, at its factory at Alliance, Ohio. Here, it is added, were exhibited pictures representing large piles of devices of competitors being burned as useless.

Company Makes Denial.

Canton, Ohio, February 20.—Counsel for the McCaskey Register company this afternoon gave out a denial of any illegal action on the part of the company, as charged in the suit brought at Cleveland. They call attention to the fact that the company has twice been exonerated by attorneys general of Ohio on actions brought charging substantially the same things as set forth in the federal case.

WOMAN'S EDITION STRONGLY INDORSED

ment when the club women of the state were reaching out for some plan upon which their concentrated interest might be centered, in their deepfelt desire to carry out the wish of their departed president, and carry on the work in which she had been most faithful to them," said Mrs. Haden in presenting the woman's edition yesterday, and she touched her hearers with her earnestness.

She introduced W. L. Halstead, business manager of The Constitution, who explained to the club members the business phases of The Constitution's offer and the possibilities of it. He assured the federated women of the state the faithful co-operation of the entire working force of the paper. Similar co-operation was assured by J. D. Gortatowsky, managing editor, and T. B. French, advertising manager.

Tennessee Club Women to Help.

Mrs. R. B. Parker, who so successfully organized and directed the two successful editions published by the women of Tennessee, and who will similarly work in the interest of the woman's edition of The Constitution, was most cordially received in the talk she made, outlining the work to be done by the women who have indorsed the enterprise. Mrs. Parker is editor of the woman's department of The Knoxville Sentinel. She is chairman of the department of civics of the Tennessee federation, and is thus fully equipped for the work she will undertake with the Georgia club women.

Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith proposed a motion which brought the unanimous indorsement of the city federation to the plan, and Mrs. F. J. Spalding, who will be the assistant general manager of the paper, as vice president of the city federation, spoke for the enthusiastic support of every woman in the organized effort of the city.

Plans Being Made.

Mrs. J. K. Ottley stated that she has not had time to work out the details of the editorial department of the paper, of which she had charge, but that every phase of woman's work would be brought out in the edition, and that there would be as many as a hundred women called upon to fill places of responsibility. There will be an associate editor in all the club centers, and there will be features, to which the most gifted women in the country will contribute.

The business department will be at once fully planned, and the women of the state will prove the meaning of united effort in the work they expect to put in the woman's edition.

SULZER WANTS PROOF TO ACT AGAINST WALDO

Albany, N. Y., February 20.—Unless verified charges of malfeasance or corruption in office are made against Rhinelander Waldo, police commissioner of New York city, Governor Sulzer, in a statement tonight says he does not purpose to interfere with the administration of police affairs in New York city. The governor's position was made known after he had received Commissioner Waldo's answer to a complaint made by Henry H. Klein against existing conditions in the New York police department. Commissioner Waldo makes a general denial of the allegations in the complaint.

FOR TWO BATTLESHIPS NAVAL BILL PROVIDES

Total of $146,000,000 Appropriated—"Big Navy Men" Confident of Success.

Washington, February 20.—The naval appropriation bill, carrying $146,000,000 and authorizing two battleships, one transport, one supply ship, six torpedo boat destroyers and four submarines, was reported late today to the house. It probably will be taken up tomorrow. Secretary Meyer was on the floor of the house when the measure was brought in.

A final vote on the battleship construction question, over which there had been a contest for weeks, was taken at the last moment. An amendment to provide for one battleship instead of two was lost 9 to 12, the economy advocates gaining two votes.

Representatives Gregg, of Texas; Hensley, of Missouri; Buchanan of Illinois, and Witherspoon, of Mississippi gave notice they would file a minority report. Representative Tribble, of Georgia, one of the leading "no battleship men," said he did not intend to filibuster against the measure, but would oppose it on the floor of the house and insist upon a record vote.

"The big navy men" of the house were confident tonight of putting the bill through as reported. Sentiment on the battleship question on the democratic side is said to be almost equally divided, while a considerable majority of the republicans favor building at least two a year.

Last year when only one battleship was authorized the naval bill appropriated $123,151,538. This year, besides providing for two dreadnaughts, the committee increased the amount for pay of the navy by about $2,000,000 and made substantial increases in the allowances for armor armament, ammunition, fuel and supplies.

FIGHT IN THE SENATE OVER RIVER MEASURE

Washington, February 20.—Extravagance of the present system of improving waterways and the need of closer co-operation between states and the federal government was emphasized in the senate today in a fight over certain provisions of the annual river and harbor appropriation bill. Senator Nelson, chairman of the senate commerce committee, said better results could be secured in waterway improvement if congress should appropriate a lump sum of money and leave the details of river improvement to a commission of army engineers.

Both branches of congress struggled with appropriation measures throughout the day, the house devoting its time to further debate over the $113,000,000 sundry civil bill. Many features of the measure were the subject of extended debate.

The senate again went through the fight over federal water power control in debate of the river and harbor bill. An amendment providing for a 30-foot dam near Minneapolis, by which water power could be developed, was adopted after friends of federal control had renewed the fight that centered about the Connecticut river dam bill last week. Final action was not taken on the bill. Senator McLean, of Connecticut, will offer the Connecticut river dam bill, over which the senate spent a week of debate, as an amendment to the river and harbor bill tomorrow.

The senate passed without debate the annual diplomatic and consular appropriation bill authorizing $3,700,000 for the support of the government's foreign service. The measure will have to be perfected in a conference committee.

The senate committee on public buildings and grounds completed the public buildings bill, which carries approximately $20,000,000 more than the house bill. A memorial bridge across the Potomac river from Washington to the Arlington National cemetery, at a cost of $5,000,000, is provided for.

Convicted of Arson.

New York, February 20.—"Izzy, the Painter's," confession that he had fired 300 houses at the behest of a local "arson trust," bore first fruit today in the conviction of Robert J. Rubin an insurance adjuster. The jury returned a verdict of guilty of second degree arson after twenty minutes' deliberation. Rubin faces a term of imprisonment up to twenty-five years. Half a dozen other alleged members of the "arson trust" are to be tried.

DR. GRAY IS COMING TO BIBLE CONFERENCE

Dean of Moody Bible Institute Will Make Two Addresses Daily.

Dr. James M. Gray, dean of Moody Bible institute, Chicago, will be present to speak twice daily during the coming Bible conference, to be held at the Baptist Tabernacle, opening March 7 and closing Sunday, March 16.

Dr. Gray has been at the head of this theological institution for a period covering ten years. The annual enrollment of students being more than 1,100. During this time he has touched and inspired people on every part of the globe, both as a preacher, teacher and writer on religious subjects.

His addresses recently have been directed toward an expose of the heresy of what is popularly known as Russellism or millennial dawnism. Dr. Gray's expositions of the falsity of interpretation of Pastor Russel's teaching is clear and forceful.

Dr. Gray is now on a tour in England, addressing various Bible conferences, notable among the list that of Dr. A. C. Dixon, in London. Dr. Gray will accompany Drs. Morgan and Broughton, reaching Atlanta in time for the opening of the conference Friday evening, March 7.

LITTLE ITEMS OF GEORGIA CITIES

Sentenced to Hang.

Savannah, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—Frank Collins, a negro, charged with the murder of Morris Robinson last April, was convicted in the superior court last night and sentenced to be hanged April 11—just two days before the anniversary of the crime. The jury discarded Collins' alibi and accepted the testimony of Bessie Fabiau, who swore she was with the man who was killed when the tragedy took place. Robinson was stabbed to death.

Waycross, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—Waycross now has a mad dog scare and if the dog killings continue there will not be many dogs left in the city shortly. Yesterday two mad dogs were killed and if dogs bitten before the two yesterday were killed show any signs of hydrophobia they will die at once. The heads of one of the dogs killed yesterday has been sent to Atlanta for examination. Recently several fine hunting dogs have been killed here because of hydrophobia.

Milledgeville, Ga., February 20.—(Special.)—In former days there existed in this city an organization of men that formed what was known as the "open court." They met once a week for the purpose of discussing interesting topics of the day and to keep in vital touch with living issues. This open court is being revived. There will be a religious feature in connection with one of the churches, also a philanthropic feature, but these will both be distinct in themselves. The court will include prominent and well informed business men of the city, doctors, lawyers, professors and merchants.
